COLORED BISHOPS MAKE ABLE SPEECHES

A Good Round Sum Is Almost Sure to Be Appropriated-Tom Reed Promises to Help-Secretary Smith Entertains.

Washington, May 15 .- (Special.)-The Atlanta exposition committee appeared before the appropriations committee of the house this morning and asked for an appropriation of $500,000 for a government exhibit at the Cotton States and International exposition, to be held in Atlanta next year. They asked for the passage of the Livingston bill providing for an appropriation of $200,000 for a government building and $300,000 for the

The Atlantians and those from other southern states who accompanied them, made a splenchd impression upon the com-mittee. With the delegation was Speaker every member of Georgia's congressional

A full committee was present. The mem-bers listened attentively and were undoubtedly favorably impressed. Indeed, after the hearing I talked with the members of the appropriations committee and without exception they spoke favorably of the bill. It may be that such a large appropriation as has been asked for might not be grant-ed, but it is safe to predict that congress will recognize the exposition by a liberal appropriation for a government building and exhibit.

Stating the Object.

Mr. Clark Howell opened the proceedings before the committee by stating the object of the visit, and added that every business interest in the south was represented. The south, he said, was united in asking congress to aid this exposition.

Then Mr. Howell introduced Mr. C. A. Collier, the president of the exposition company, who spoke at length, explaining the object of the exposition. It was intended. said he, to advertise the resources of the country and to bring us into closer commercial relations with the Central and South American states. By reason of its peculiar location, of its railroad advantages and for many other reasons. Atlanta had been selected as the best place for

Not a Local Affair.

While the movement was inaugurated in Atlanta, every state in the south had endorsed it and it was to be a national exposition, which, he believed, congress would be glad to endorse and aid. He then asked that the blanks in the bill be filled in with $500,000.

Chairman Sayres asked how much had been subscribed.

"We have raised," answered Mr. Collier, about $500,000, including the value of the buildings and grounds which we have. In the last few weeks a quarter of a million dollars has been subscribed in our city alone-$75,000 of which was subscribed by the city government." Mr. Collier then stated in reply to questions from members of the committee that the exposition would be an international affair. Every state in union would take part in it, and with government endorsement all the South American republics would participate.

Government Recognition Desired. Without government endorsement, however, we could not expect the South Amerithe committee, remarked that this was a large affair, and it must be remembered that with government endorsement the government would be responsible for its debts unless the company paid them.

Mr. Collier explained that the company was managed by the best business men, and he would assure the gentlemen of the committee that no debts would be left unpaid, and the government would not be called upon to meet any deficiency after the exposition closed. Mr. Coombs, of the committee, suggested that all foreign countries be asked to ex-"Certainly," replied Mr. Collier, "that is idea. We want every country in the world represented." "You only ask for about one-half of the amount appropriated for an exhibit at Chicago," suggested General Coggswell, of the "Will you be satisfied with half as large

"We want the best this committee will give us," answered Mr. Collier.

Mr. Cannon's Suggestion. Here Mr. Cannon, of the committee, mterrupted to say that much of the Chicago money had been expended in getting up the it. Another such could be made at alf the cost. When Mr. Collier concluded, Mr. Howell suggested that this was a national exposition. It would benefit every state and every manufacturer in the union. General Coggsweil and other members of committee suggested that they knew that, and they believed it would be endorsed by all the states. They recognized the fact that it was to be a national exed General Coggswell of Mr. Collier, "That is all we ask for."

Mr. Labouise Speaks. effect such an exposition would have upon the trade of this country with Central and South America.

In reply to a question from General Bingham, Mr. Labouise said that his section had received much benefit from the exposition several years ago, though it was not the success it should have been. He be-lieved this exposition in Atlanta would prove of vast benefit to all the southern states, as well as to all the states of the

He believed it might result in building up a trade with the countries south of us.

Messrs, Inman and Jordan. Mr. S. M. Inman told the committee of the vast benefit such an exposition would be to the south. He spoke of the benefits of the cotton exposition, and said that the government could do no better work for the south and the country than to aid this proposed exposition. Coonel G. Gunby Jordan, of Columbus, spoke about the manufacturers and re-sources of the south. He believed this exposition would particularly benefit the manufacturers of the south. He spoke of the colored building and exhibit of the colored race that was to be had. He said an exhit tion would be made showing the progress of the colored race in their thirty years of

Bishop Gaines Talks. Mr. Howell then spoke of the three colored men present and introduced Bishop Gaines, of Georgia. Bishop Gaines endorsed the exposition. He did not believe anything could be done in this country that would more benefit the colored race than this exposition. "We have had thirty years of freedom," said he, "and what we are we have made ourselves in this time. We are cotton raisers and the best farmers this country has ever had. I represent," said he, "ten millions of colored people. We are going to remain with you. We want you to give us light down in Georgia and let us show you what the colored race has done and can do. Therefore, I ask you, let us have this money and we will exhibit to you the truth about our people and show you what we are."

Bishop Grant's Point. Bishop Grant, of Texas, another colored man, endorsed what had been said, and added that if the colored race were given an opportunity to show what it had done and could do it would exhibit the fact that there is no race issue.

"The negroes have never had a fair and square opportunity to show what they could do," said he. "We want to show you this time that we can do everything in this country the white man can do. We know when we have overtaken you there is no other man before us, and we are right after you." (Laughter.)

"When you really see the work we have complished since the war you will encourage us. We need encouragement. You need our muscle and we need your money. We want to show you our interests are the same. If we make cotton, you make money, The negroes of the south don't want you to pass any special laws. All we want is for you to give us a man's chance." (Loud ap-

Mr. Howell stated that the colored people had not come forward as mendi-cants, but had subscribed liberally to the exposition.

Give the Black a Chance.

He then introduced Professor Washingasking for the same thing. They were united in asking that the government aid and encourage this exposition where the colored people would have their exhibit alongside of the whites.

"Our institutions in the south," said he, "want an opportunity to exhibit what they have done and can do. The colored race simply want an opportunity to make an exposition of what they have done. It will give them such an encouragement to bring about a solution of many of the perplexing problems we have."

Mr. Howell thanked the committee for its hearing and added that the exposition committee was more than satisfied if it had made a favorable impression, but he wanted to know as soon as possible where "The minute we have the recognition of our government," said he, "we are ready to go to the Central and South American countries. We hope we will soon hear from the committee that we have received favorable recognition."

Good for Tom Reed.

Ex-Governor Bullock, of Atlanta, sent for ex-Speaker Reed and introduced him generally to the other Georgians present. When he had finished his introduction, he remarked, "Now, Mr. Reed, we expect you to help us in this matter." Mr. Reed bowed profoundly and replied: "Oh, I am always ready to help the south."

Chairman Sayres said tonight that he would appoint a subcommittee tomorrow to report on the bill.

Will Camp There. Late this afternoon the delegation held a meeting at the Metropolitan and Chairman Howell appointed subcommittees to confer with the leading members of the house and enate. They will remain several days, working among the congressmen and arousing their interest in the exposition bill. President Collier and all the members of the delegation express themselves as great-

County-Birmingham People Are Happy, Confident of Johnston's Success. Montgomery, Ala., May 15 .- (Special.)-The cyclone has struck the Oates crowd and they are much in the same fix the parrot was that the colonel has been telling about in his speeches. The truth is breaking or the cuckoos. "Johnston wins! Oates not in it! Here's your Constitution!" screamed the newsboys this morning. "It is a lie," grumbled the Oates claquers but the returns today bear out every report which The Constitution printed.

Johnston is a winner-an easy winner Reports today have been merely correborative. Wilcox county reported a pleasant surprise to the Johnston men. It has been conceded to Oates in almost all reports, but the telegram from Camden published below shows it is on the winning side. The Oates bluff is very feeble now. His crowd need nerve tonic again and need it badly. The most confident show disappointment and appear to have that tired feeling you read about in the almanacs. They don't acknowledge Johnston as a winner and they try hard to figure their man out ahead, When indisputable returns are shown them they mumble something about fraud and suggest that the state convention will tell the story. By the way, the Oates men are banking strongly on the state convention. The truth is, their only hope lies in it now. Colonel Oates's cry of fraud is regarded as evidence that he realizes his weakness. It is notable that he has made no public claim to the counties his friends allege that he

Colonel Oates has said: "I have 270 votes sure," and adds, "if I am not cheated out of them." He does not specify what counties he has carried for fear that the returns will make his claims ridiculous. Johnston seems to entertain no such fears as to his counties. He makes an open claim and he has not had occasion to swallow any doses of disappointment. The good news from Morgan, Wilcox and Lowndes is confirmed today, while the lingering doubt about Lee has disappeared and that county will go solid for Johnston Cleburne and Clay are solid. In the latter county only two men voted for Oates.

St. Clair has gone by a big majority for Johnston. Eliminating every county which appears to be in the slightest doubtful, Johnston has 289 votes. One thing that is peculiarly gratifying to Captain Johnston is that the wool hat boys won the victory for him. The farmers proved themselves his ton, a colored man of Tuskegee, Ala., who friends. Birmingham, Ala., May 15 .- (Special.)-The curtain is practically risen and Joseph F. Johnston is conceded to be the victor over Congressman William C. Oates. As the returns from various counties have come in the figures and estimates that have been made are verified.

Tomorrow all of the sixty-six counties in the state will hold conventions to select delegates to the state convention, which meets in Montgomery on May 22d.

The action of these conventions will prac tically determine the nomination and will convince the Cates people that they are badly defeated. Colonel Oates's managers will know tomorrow night that their man is defeated, but they have been so persistent in their claims that they may continue to boast in a half-hearted way until the state convention meets next Tuesday. There will be some trading tomorrow, very likely, in the county conventions. Johnston's friends think, that they can take care of his interests, although the other side is up to some trickery, and if the Oates people get half a chance they will carry up contesting delegations from as many counties as possible.

As the returns continue to come in slow ly, the figures and estimates printed this morning in The Constitution are verified. FUN IN LIMESTONE TODAY. Johnston and Denson Speak There and Ontes Goes, Too.

Montgomery, Ala., May 15.—(Special.)—
There promises to be a monkey and a parrot time in Athens, Limestone county, tomorrow. Captain Johnston has for weeks had an engagement to speak there. That county held no primaries, but will hold a mass meeting and convention. Johnston is billed to be on hand and to give them a talk on pure democracy. It was reported here tonight that Congressman Denson had gone to Athens to assist Captain Johnston in the work, and when he heard it Colonel Oates grabbed his grip and an Advertiser reporter and caught the train for Athens. The friends of Colonel Oates are kicking violently because of Congressman Denson's alleged interference in a matter which they say cannot concern him, and yet they have been bragging on the brilliant and patriotic work of Congressman Clarke in having car-ried Mobile and some neighboring counties. The mass meeting at Athens is apt to hear some pointed paragraphs tomorrrow The feeling there is intense. It may be matter of interest to know that this is Colonel Oates's third visit to Athens since he

DR. RICE THE WINNER.

CAPTURED BY A SHORT NECK

Taral, the Mount, Does Good Headwork, Landing Him Safely.

SNEDEKER, THE BOOKIE, SKIPS Ticket Holders in His Box Have Long Faces-Pool Room People Have the Dwyers Arrested,

New York, May 15.-The Brooklyn handicap, the first big turf event of the season, was won by Dr. Rice in the fast time of

2:07% today.

Over 40,000 persons saw the race. It was an ideal day for the race. The track was in perfect condition, and there was every prospect of the record of 2:07 flat made by Dry Monopole, getting lowered. The enclosure was uncomfortably crowded. All the transportation facilities were overtaxed and the work of getting to and from the track was an arduous task. The betting ring was so crowded that it was as much as a person's life was worth to attempt to make a wager. It needed the services of a rusher of a football team to place a bet. The weather was fine and although the air was overcharged with dust, that had been churned up by the cavalcade of vehicles of every known description that stretched from Brooklyn to the track all day, and a greater portion of the night, every one was happy. It was a typical American

The big event was the fourth race on the card. It was scheduled to take place at 4 o'clock, but it was nearly 4:48 when the flag fell. The horses were at the post nearly forty minutes. Break after break occurred, but not one was even enough to warrant their getting the word. Copyright, Herald, Ajax and Comanche ame out to the furlong post fully a half dozen times. Copyright's fractious temper was really the chief cause of the delay. Sport, contrary to general expectations, be haved himself well throughout the trying ordeal. Comanche was restive and did considerable buck jumping. Lowlander also gave a grand stand exhibition of bad temper. He managed to unseat McDormott once and had him on his neck several times A crowd of several thousand persons surged around the chute. This made the horses restive. It was finally decided to open the turn, which had been temporarily closed, and make the start there. This was done. A start was finally effected. It looked to be a fair one for all but Lowlander. Martin, however, did not think it was a start and Clifford was left standing still. Thompson also pulled up Sport just as they got the flag. McDermott made no effort to join the field with Lowlander. He simply cantered back to the paddock. Clifford and Sport went after the others, but gave up the unequal struggle very soon. Copyright was the pacemaker to the first turn. Bergen made an effort to draw away from his field as they neared the 'ar turn, but failed signally to do so. Henry of Na-varre, who had been his nearest att., a ant If the way, moved up to him. The instant

he collared, Copyright was beaten Taral's Great Ride

Henry of Navarre piloted the field into the homestretch. Dr. Rice and Sir Walter, who had been in easy positions and well up, as with one accord, closed on Henry of Navarre as soon as they were headed for home. A ding-dong finish then began. Taral rode Dr. Rice with the strength and energy that have made him famous. He urged him to the utmost limit of endurance. The game fellow responded to whip and spur to the last gasp, and finally won a superb race by a scant length. Henry of Navarre struggled gamely to the last gasp. He lasted long enough to beat Sir Walter half a length for the place.

Sir Walter was really not up to a bruising race. The pace and distance began to tell whim. He faltered at the critical juncture. The cry that the favorite wins rent the air, when Doggett made his effort with the courageous little fellow. It was premature, as Sir Walter was all out and really had nothing left with which to finish. Bassettlaw, the imported herse, made a creditable showing. He was one of the last to leave the post and trailed until they began to near the turn for home. Then he began to crawl up on the leaders. He threaded his way through the field at a great rate and finished fourth, full of running. His finish was the strongest of the lot, as none of the others had anything to spare. Com anche took it into his head to run when it was too late. Ajax was never once dangerous or prominent. This also applies to Ban quet, Blitzen, Diablo and Herald.

Fred Foster, the owner of Dr. Rice, back-ed the horse heavily on the winter books. His winnings aggregate $50,000 in additi to the stake, which is worth $25,000, $18,000 of which goes to Dr. Rice.

A number of persons backed the horse on Snedeker's book. When they went to cash they found an empty box. Snedecker had decamped. The saddest individual of the lot was a man who had a ticket which read "$3,500 to $500, Dr. Rice. Snedeker made a future book on the race, and ower several thousand dollars

Arrest of President Dwyer, The disgruntled poolroom men, who are determined to enforce the lottery law as interpreted by Judge Pryor, caused the arrest of President P. J. Dwyer and the judges during the afternoon. The arrest, so far as Mr. Dwyer was concerned, was a farce. A man from Police Justic Walsh's court told him that he was under arrest and asked him to appear befor Justice Walsh tomorrow. He promised to do go.

All went well until the third race. Just as the horses were going to the post, Sheriff Buttling, of Brooklyn, and several deputies, quietly took up a stand in the judge's enclosure. They told the judges that they were under arrest. As soon as the race was run, Judges Simmons, McDowell and Smith were taken before Judge Watson, who was holding court in the Gravesend town hall. They were admitted to bail in the sum of $1,000 each. It is said that $1,000 each. It is said that over sixty war-rants have been issued and wholesale arrests will follow. It is the ultimate intention of DeLacey and his cohorts to seize the race orses as gambling paraphernalia.

The Sports Not Alarmed.

The race track people make light of the affair, and say it will all end in smoke. They insist that so long as the Ives pool bill's conditions are complled with, no law is violated. The poolroom men and their lawyers insist that Judge Pryor's decision in the Irving-Brotton case, in which he declared the Ives bill uncnostitutional, has rendered the bill null and void, and that the officers of the Blooklyn Jockey Club are violating the lottery law and are liable to a penalty of two years' imprisonment or a fine of $1,000 for each offense. Howe & Hummel, the counselors for the poolroom men, say that they will see that the laws are enforced. Stonewall's victory over Dr. Hashbrouck, in the inaugural event, was a severe blow to the talent. It was also a facer for the bookmakers. M. F. Dwyer began the senson with one of his famous plunges. He got the substantial odds of 8 to 1 against him. A new sum was netted for the Dwy-er faction of each of the 110 books that did business on the track., He also won heavily on "Boss" Croker's colt, Utica, in the third race. The ex-Tammany chieftain had a liberal commission on his colt. The Dywers left Banquet severely alone in the Brook-

The stewards appointed by the jockey club for the Blooklyn Jockey Club's spring meeting are Messrs. P. J. Dwyer, John Hunter and J. G. K. Lawrence. Had the judges not secured bail, these gentlemen would have judged the races. They, as it happened, however, had nothing to do.

Admission Receipts Large. The jockey club has taken upon itself to issue all complimentary and free badges. This made the revenue on the Brooklyn handicap day one of the largest in the history of the American turf. The bookmakers are not pleased with the arrangement. The stewards predict disaster on off or wet days, and are strongly opposed to the nnovation or, in fact, anything suggested by the jockey club for the benefit or purication of the turf. Twelve bookmakers were also arrested and released on bail. The cases of all the accused will go before the grand jury.

Talking It Over.

Cleveland, O., May 15.—The first session of the conference of the coal operators with the delegates of the United Mine Workers was held at Case hall this afternoon. J. B. was held at Case hall this afternoon. J. B. Zerbe, of Cleveland, an operator in both Ohio and Pennsylvania, was made chairman. Patrick McBryde, secretary of the United Mine Workers, was elected secretary. As constituted after the report of the tary. As constituted after the report of the committee on credentials the convention embraced 195 miners and 150 operators. The main object of the convention has not yet come up for discussion. The national convention of the Amaigamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers also began its session here today.

Spurious Money Orders.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 15.—General Auditor Loop, of the Southern Express Company, has requested the Southern Associated Press to send out the following warning to all southern cities:

"Spurious money orders, purporting to have been issued by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express, Chicago, have been sent all over the south. Some are sent through banks and attorneys. The general auditor of the Southern Express Company hereby cautions all bankers, express agents and others to beware of these counterfeits."

HOW OATES DID IT

Local Conditions Controlled the Fight at Mobile.

AN APPROPRIATION WAS AT STAKE.

It Was Feared if Johnston Succeeded, the Harbor Improvements Would Suffer at the Hands of Administration Men.

Mobile, Ala., May 15 .- (Special.)-The re sult of the local primaries here on Saturday last to choose ninety-three delegates to the county convention, which will select seventeen delegates to the gubernatorial convention at Montgomery, has already been published in The Constitution. Nothing has since developed to change the general result, and Mobile county goes into the Oates col-

But, that this was a contest showing the real strength of the two candidates for governor, no thinking man in Mobile believes today. The causes that combined to give the county to Colonel Oates are numerous strong, and many of them very plain. They ante-date the present campaign, and revert to previous struggles of local factions to control Mobile county.

This correspondence showed plainly, or the day that Mr. Rich made that suicidal error of refusing to continue in the governor's race, that Johnston sentiment was ab solutely paramount in this city; and that Colonel Oates's chances for its vote were rendered almost nothing by Mr. Rich's action. The city with its 57 votes controls the county convention, county precincts sending but 36 delegates. These last were uncertain and perhaps about evenly divided. But since the last municipal election there had smouldered in the city a very violent and deeplyrooted antipathy to the winning side in it. This was known as 'the Lavretta ring," and embraced most of the best-known ward politicians and "professionals."

Rich Was First Choice, of Course. So long as Mr. Rich was in the race, it was felt that Mobile's pride in her "favorite son" would insure him a solid 17 from Mobile in the state convention; and many of the most earnest Johnston men were willing to concede this mere compliment to the ultra Cleveland canudate, conditioned upon that delegation going solid for Johnston, so soon as compliment ceased and the alleged "triangular fight" narrowed down to the tug of war between the two real contestants. The Rich men were perforce content with this tacit agreement, the most ardent of them never believing that the young mayor had the ghost of a chance for the nomination. The more hopeful of them, however, believed in that remote possibility, a show of sufficient convention strength to give the Rich men the balance of power, in which case, they fondly believed, Mobile would be constrained to stick to her own man, and thus run him in after the manner of Governor Jones, four years ago.

Johnston Second Choice.

Rich's withdrawal knocked all this into everlasting smithereens, and left his personal adherents more evenly between the devil and the deep sea than had his refusal to run against Lavretta for the mayoralty. Msny of them were not for Oates; many others were avowed Johnston men; and now, city pride cutting no figure in the matter, there was an almost solid stampede to the Johnston flag. The county was conceiled to the "Jefferson boy," and Oates was not "in it."

Ring and Anti-Ring.

The local bitterness against the Lavretta ing, however, had in no sense abated; and t was plain that a fight would still be made in the city wards to at least protest against the mayor and his party. This feeling was especially bitter against Mr. Charles E. McLean, a young but active ward politician, who had for some time been chairman of the county democratic committee and man from his ward. The Rich men and their organ, The Mobile Register, openly de-nounced McLean for his strong advocacy of Lavretta and his opposition to Rich in the city election, and for his running for councilman at that time. McLean was further a pronounced Johnston advocate, throwing his personal influence and that of his posidelegate on the Johnston ticket in his ward. Thus, to down the ring, and to change the complexion of the county committee bec a pronounced factor in the governor's race and perhaps the only bitter one in it. Still this had been of no effect, and Johnston would have carried the county "hands down," but for another matter of local pride—and what was presumed to be of local danger.

Clarke Takes a Hand.
Clarke ! Congressman Richard H. Clarke suddenly appeared in Mobile at this juncture. He is the colleague of Colonel Oates, to whom he is indebted for help in many matters involving local pride, and he is as ultra a Cleveing local pride, and he is as ultra a Cleve-land partisan as Mayor Rich, and announced himself through The Constitution' columns, notwithstanding that he voted to override Cleveland's veto of the seigniorage bill, and that he openly announces himself as in favor of the re-election of Senato

Mr. Clarke came to try an important case He tried it and remained in town using all his influence for Colonel Oates The latter came to Mobile to confer with him, returned immediately to Bibb county, came back a week later and gave two days to speaking at Whistler, a small precinct and at Mobile. On both occasions Mr. Clarke introduced him in a carefully pre-pared speech, and he threw the firebrand of ew issue into the campaign, For, whill ti is doubtful if either would have changed ten votes in the county, by confining himself to the muddle of national questions, Mr. Clarke touched local pride and local fear upon their tenderest spot. He spoke and vigorously on all points, telling his constituents that they did not understand what they were doing, that it was his duty to teach them, and that they were not democrats if they criticised, or did not en-dorse the head of the administration. Mr. Clarke is a vigorous and absolutely fearless speaker, and he told his people that he did not care to go back to congress, un

DANGERS OF DRESS.

How Men and Women Run Great Risks During the Summer in the Way They Are Clothed.

Few people think at this time of the year

Few people think at this time of the year of the great importance of dress.

In the winter people dress warmly because they know it is a necessity, but in the summer, when it is hot, they go to the other extreme and even dress too lightly. Hot weather causes people to use light clothing; but suddenly the wind changes, the air becomes chilly, and a cold is pretty certain to be the result.

Now, where most people make a mistake is in not guarding against these sudden changes quickly and in time. Any man or woman who has on a light suit of clothing, and feels a change which brings a chill, should at once counteract the chill. This can only be done by the use of some pure stimulant, not gingers or hot drinks, but a pure medicinal whisky that will refresh, the system, cause the blood to circulate, and bring about immediate reaction. There is but one medicinal whisky that will do this, and that is Duffy's Pure Mait. It has for twenty years accomplished what has never been known before in counteracting the first symptoms of sudden colds and preventing the possibility of pneumonia, tevers and all the distressing complaints which follow any cold.

It should be remembered, however, that Duffy's Pure Mait is the only whicky which will certainly accomplish this, and however much dealers may talk to the contains.

they endorsed the man that he endorsed his action and votes while he was there. The Stroke That Won.

This might not have been a very telling argument, had he not coupled it with another that went home every time. Mr. Clarke has been a hard-working, clear-Clarke has been a hard-working, clear-headed and very useful representative, especially on the rivers and harbors committee; and this time, when he came to argue a case in court, he brought with him as his guest, Congressman Henderson, of the same committee. In his two speeches at mass meetings and at those he made at nearly every ward in the city, Mr. Clarke dwelt upon his useful work for the harbor appropriation, electric lighting of the channel, improvement of the rivers behind us, etc. He dwelt upon the great necessity of Mobile's endorsing Mr. Cleveland, by voting for Colonel Oates, to the end of keeping the for Colonel Oates, to the end of keeping the sophistry or metaphysics, logic, president and Mr. Carlisle in an amiable mood towards these great public works. Whether this was certainly told as no great issue of princi-ple could have told. From Mr. Clarke's first speech, the subject of debate in all street corner and barroom conventions ceased to be Johnston and Oates, and became harbo improvement—when it wasn't "the ring." Oates and an Appropriation.

Material progress is fortunately Mobile's fetich at this moment, and she certainly has made surprising strides towards it. Confronted with the bold iteration that a vote for Johnston was a direct vote against appropriations already made, or hoped for in the future, she felt very much as an expectant bride might upon hearing that her to-be had levanted with another young woman. It was plain that this argument was doing more to thrill the sensitive pocket nerve of this public even than was "ring rule" to shock its susceptibilities.

But further than speaking, Mr. Clarke took off his coat and went in among "the boys." He boldly announced that he was in it and to stay; personally canvassed the city and ran as a delegate from the eighth ward to the county convention. The John-ston men felt daily the effects of this canvass, and its results were not overstated in the special dispatch announcing the vote of Mobile county, which said that Congressman Clarke's work and influence had beaten out the real Johnston sentiment and lassoced the county for Oates. The day before his advent Johnston would have carried Mobile county by an immense majority

Only a Tail-Ender Now. This is the truth of the election in a nut shell. It was in no sense a measure of the derence of the voters of Mobile county as ween Johnston and Oates. It was a local declaration of business interest, alded by the awakening of sleeping local animosi It is averred that Mr. Clarke has enemies by his course. It is retorted that he has made more friends. Such speculation has nothing to do with the facts for it is, or should be, an axiom that the man who doesn't make both is wholly unfit to send to congress, and will prove it when he gets there. Now, that it is assured that Johnston will be the next governor of Alabama, Mobile county again trails along with the tailenders. There is no proof that she has either expressed her preference, or gained any material advantage by resuming that position, but it is equally certain that no great harm can result from it, further than the possible loss of confidence, in numerous aspirants in posse for small crumbs from the gubernatorial table.

SHOT BY MASKED ASSASSINS.

No Cause Is Known for the Attempted Murder.

Greenville, Ala., May 15.—(Special.)— Masked men went to the house of Milton Nash, a prominent planter, last night and shot him through the right lung in the presence of his wife and children. Nash is a prosperous farmer and resides five miles from Greenville. He was peaceable and quiet and no cause is assigned for the deed. The murderers then went to a nearby negro house and robbed the occupants of what money they had. The assassing are at large. Nash will probably die.

TO TEST REGISTRATION LAWS.

South Carolina Republicans to Have

Charleston, S. C., May 15.—The most important action of the republican executive committee today was the appointment of a committee to consider and test the election and registration laws of the state. A comnittee, consisting of Chairman Webster. Messrs. Brayton, Fordham and Dicking messrs. Brayton, Fordnam and Dickinson was appointed to prepare and push a case in the proper court to test the constitutionality of the registration laws. This committee is also charged with looking after the proposed constitutional convention. The committee will raise a fund with which to employ lawyers to make the cases. One of the mittee will raise a fund with which to employ lawyers to make the cases. One of the committee says that one of the chief grounds of complaint, and which he thinks will hold, is that the registration laws forbid registration for those who failed to register in 1882, and who were of age at that time, whereas, the constitution says that all citizens twenty-one years of age, and not convicted of crime, shall be allowed to vote.

DECLINES TO RUN.

O. B. Stevens Announces That He Is Not a Candidate for Congress.

ALWAYS BEEN A STANCH DEMOCRAT

The Administration Has Utterly Failed to Redeem the Promises the Party Made to the People.

Albany, Ga., May 15.—(Special.)—The following is the full text of a letter from Hon. O. B. Stevens to the editor of The Albany Herald:

"Dawson, Ga., May 12.-To the Editor of The Herald: I have for some time realized that a fearful crisis is upon us as a people, and national relief must be had in some form. There is something radically wrong in any country where a favored few grow sely wealthy at the expense of the multitude of the other class. The desire to accumulate a competency is to be commended, provided it is accomplished by honest, legitimate labor.

let us come to the facts as they "Take, for instance, the various railroads of our country—only a few years ago pros-perous and in fine condition, most of them now in the hands of receivers. I call attention to our own—the Central—the pride of Georgia. This road was an exception to the rule for many years, paying dividends to its stockholders, but recent manipulation has obtensibly ruined the road.

"It is also true that the prices of the products of our soil are all fixed long before the harvest. Just so much money is allowed to circulate and the necessities of the tollers force them to sell at the prices fixed. We have been told that it was over production, but recently this theory has been exploded, for it has been shown that all the product is needed. And now it is unconsumption. Where is the trouble? The laboring class of our country produce enough to supply the world, yet we see the rich getting richer and the poor poorer, yet laboring continuously.

"Two years ago our own, the democratic party, made a bold, open fight before the people, promising if elected the free coinage of silver, the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state banks and a tariff for revenue only. The people had conndence that these changes in our laws would bring relief, would give us a greater volume of currency sufficient to do the business of the country and correct the wrongs complained of. They voted for it and were successful. Our party has been in possession of the government since March 4, 1893, but to date these promises have not been compiled

"I do not write this in a spirit of complaint against the democratic party, or against any member of it, but, if all the above is true—and I do not doubt it—we can no longer trust the cause of the people and the democratic party in the hands of those now in office, and in this connection you are orized to say that I am not a candidate for the nomination for congress or any other office. But with my disappoint from the present administration, I still hold to the principles of the democratic party and will be found in the ranks battling for the rights of my party and for the common good of my country, but, in the name of justice, right and good conscience, give us what we have fought for and w "O. THIS HAS A BETTER LOOK. The Senate Progresses with the Tariff Bill.

Washington, May 15.—Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, offered a resolution on which he asked immediate action, calling on the secretary of the treasury for information on the following points: Total number of persons engaged in protected industries of the United States, whose wages are or may be claimed to be affected by tariff legisla-tion; total number of persons so engaged, whose wages will not be affected; proportion of the population of the United States that depend upon the foreign markets for the sale of their products, classifying the industries; total number of such persons who are na tive born citizens; the total number who are naturalized, and the total number who are aliens, and at what ratio alien mechanics and laborers are taking the places of na tive and naturalized citizens in the protecten industries. All this information is to be based upon the census of 1890.

Mr. Chandler, of New Hampshire-Let that go over and be printed. I take occasion to suggest to the senator from Ne-braska that before he asks for its adoption It would be well to ascertain whether or no secretary of the treasury has the means of answering the inquiries. I am afr senator will find that there are no diate data from which answers can be made.

Mr. Allen—Answers to a resolution of substantially the same character were made by the secretary of the treasury in 1886, based on the census of 1880. This resolution is not a new thing by any means.

The resolution went over until tomorrow

The only noteworthy points in the day's uscussion were a charge by Mr. Vest, that republican senators were wasting day after day in 'insectivorous' discussion, a declaration by him that democratic sena tors intended to pass the bill if it took them till the snow fell, and a denial on the part of Mr. Aldrich that any disposition had been or would be shown by republican senators to do anything except discuss the fairly and properly. There would be no fillbustering, he added, on the part of the opponents of the bill.

SNODGRASS IN CONTROL.

The Congressman Organizes the Convention and Seats His Delegate. Chattanooga, Tenn., May 15.—(Special.)— Last night and all the morning delegates poured into Cleveland for the purpose of holding the convention to nominate a democratic candidate for congress from the third district. When the body was rapped to order by the district chairman, W. M. Nixon, at 1 o'clock, fully three hundred delegates were present. The friends of Snod-grars and Frazier, the candidates of the country and town respectively, after caucusfrom the morning and half the night at the headquarters of their leaders, soon became involved in a wordy war over temporary organization. W. T. Murray was chosen chairman from Warren county, and M. H. McDowell, of Grundy, was made secretary amid a perfect hubbul.

retary amid a perfect hubbub. Hamilton, which is the home of Frazier, and solidly instructed for him, raised the point that Murray was a Chattanoogan, and not being in his county's delegation, was not entitled to a seat in the convention and kicked lustily against the Snodgrass men choosing him as chairman. But Hamilton was disregarded. All the assistant secretaries chosen were Snodgrass men also, and a disposition prevails among the majority to ride rough shod over the Fra-zierites, although the latter were alert. Every ruling of the chair seemed to go against the Frazier people. The forces lined up 87 1-100 to 69-9-100, for Snodgrass and Frazier, respectively. No permanent organization has yet been effected. C. P. Goree, of Hamilton, is the caucus nominee of the Snodgrass men for permanent chair-man. A hard fight was made to throw out proxies, Hamilton's delegation doing the protesting, but the convention voted to allow them.

Not a few predict a deadlock equal in duration to the recent atterney lockup at South Pittsburg. James, McMinn and Polk counties are each represented by complete Snedgrass and Frazier delegations, both claiming to be rightful delegates. At 8 p. m, the convention convened again, but the committee on credentials was not ready to report, and after a terrible wrangle adjournment was had to 10 o'clock tonight. Great excitement prevailed, the Frazier crowd be ing red hot. It is known that Snodgrass will succeed in seating his delegation from James, and believed that the committee will decide favorably to him in the case of Polk 140 of the 171 votes in the convention, of which 114 are necessary for nomination. LARGE ATTENDANCE AT COLUMBUS

The City Is Giving the Visitors a Jolly Time-Atlanta Has a Strong Delegation There.

Columbus, Ga., May 15.-(Special.)-The city is in the possession of the Knights of Pythias. From all parts of the state, sir knights are here in attendance upon the annual session of the grand lodge. They began arriving last night. More than 200 visitors came down from Atlanta and this morning large delegations arrived from Macon, Augusta, Savannah and Americus, besides a number of knights from various other cities and towns of the state. The programme that has been mapped out for the session of the grand lodge is enter-taining and at the same time is of great importance to the members of the order.

The train from Macon came in this morning at 7:30 o'clock with the Savannah and Macon delegations. They were met at the depot by a delegation from Stonewall lodge No. 25 and the Fifth regiment band and es-corted to their hotels. In the Augusta delegation was the drill team of the uniform rank who came in fine order and with the avowed purpose of capturing the first prize

The public exercises marking the conver ing of the fifth annual session of the grand lodge of the state of Georgia were held at

Springer opera house this morning, and were attended by a large audience. After reaching the opera house the knights took the seats reserved for them, the speakers of the occasion, members of the grand lodge and members on the city council being seated on the stage. The visitors were made welcome by Mayor Slade in behalf of the city and by Judge J. M. McNeal in behalf of the local lodges of knights. C. S. Cohen, of Savannah, responded in a speech of welcome in behalf of the grand lodge. Judge McNeal extended the visitors a hearty welcome. They had come from all portions of the state, the culture of which they rep-resented, and he welcomed them not as strangers but bound by sacred ties of brotherhood; he welcomed them as members of one great family. The speaker then re-ferred to the growth and strength of their order and to important business that lay before them in the session of the grand lodge. In concluding his remarks, he de-clared that every hospitality of the city was at the command of the visitors. This afternoon a secret session was held After transacting routine business the mat-ter of selecting a place for holding the next annual session was taken up. Atlanta, Ga.,

was chosen unanimously.

The contest drill will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Captain Slade at the conclusion of his address of welcome presented Grand Chancellor Hunt with a pair of beautiful silver keys. The K. P's. Enthusiastic. A private telegram from Columbus last light informing the Pythians of Atlanta hat the next annual conclave would be held in Atlanta was enthusiastically re-ceived. The telegram, which was from Mr. W. A. Long, said:

Miss Weir. Ocala, Fla., May 15.-At 7 o'clock this morning Nero Young, the negro who as-Weir, near this place saulted Miss Lizzie yesterday, was taken from jail by a mot sed of several hundred citizens and lynched. The mob battered down the doors of the jail with sledge hammers and the faller seeing that resistance was useless, surrendered the keys to the cell in which the negro was confined. The negro was taken to the outskirts of town and speedily swung to a tree. Before being hung he confessed the crime.

The sheriff had been on watch at the jail all night, but left at dawn of day, thinking that no attempt would be made to form the jall in the broad daylight. Fully 1,000 people have been out to view the body of the negro, on whose breast is pinned a card bearing this legend: "Our women must be protected." Signed, "Citizens of Ocala.

Shot by Midnight Visitors. Bristol, Tenn., May 15.—(Special.)—The following special from Gate, Va., was received here this afternoon: "About 12 o'clock last night a crowd of ten er tweive persons—black, as we hear—went to a nouse half a mile from this place, usually oc-cupied by a number of lewd women known as the Wrights and Greens, for the purpose, to thrash them out. The wowe suppose, to thrash them out. The wo-men were not at the house, having under-stood that there would be a posse there that night. Not finding the women, they that night. Not finding the women, they went to Sam Wood, colored, who lived near by, and asked him if the Wright and Green women were in his house. He told them that they were not. They demanded that the door be opened. The darky refused, but met them at the door with his ax. One of the posse shot the negro, the ball taking effect in his left side, from which shot he died about 7 o'clock this morning. Wood was a quiet, peaceful fellow, LARGE FIRE IN BOSTON

Which Started on the "Bleachers" at Baseball Park.

Boston, Mass., May 15.-Fire broke out on the bleacher seats at the baseball grounds this afternoon while a game was in progress between the Boston and Baltimore clubs, It spread rapidly among the inflar material in its reach and was not under control until 8:30 o'clock p. m. Roughly stated, about twelve acres have been burn ed over, from fifty to sixty buildings de-stroyed and some five hundred families made homeless. The fire crossed Tremont street to the east in three places, but was confined mainly to the section bounded by Sterling, Burke and Cabot streets. Several firemen were injured and Chief Webber was badly hurt and taken to the hospital. Several pieces of the fire apparatus had to be abandoned. Probably the most valuable buildings burned were the grand stand on the ballgrounds, which cost $75,000, and the Franklin school on Tremont street. No attempt has been made as yet to estimate the loss. Help, was summoned from all cities and towns within ten miles of Boston, the fire was started by some boys among shavings and refuse lumber under the bleaching boards while the game was in progress. It spread so quickly that the occupants of the bleachers and the grand stand were obliged to run for their lives. stand were obliged to run for their lives. The loss is conservatively estimated at from $300,000 to $500,000, although one au-ority puts it at $1,000,000.

The buildings destroyed embraced 160 wooden tenements which sheltered nearly one thousand persons. These are homeless and mourning the loss of their slender household possessions. The doctor then proceeded to attack President Cleveland and his cabinet. He said that the president was now living in open adultery and that Secretary Carisle was a drunkard and debaucher. Nearly every member of the cabinet was also attacked most bitterly. Many people left the church during the delivery of the sermon and there is much indignation expressed against the minister.

make collections. Bibb Will Soon Act. Chairman George W. Gustin has called a Chairman George W. Gustin has called a meeting of the democratic executive committee of Bibb county for next Friday to fix a time and method for electing delegates to the gubernatorial convention. Sentiment seems divided as to the method of election, whether by mass meeting at the courthouse or by primary. It is believed that the Evans side prefers a mass meeting and the Atkinson people incline to meeting and the Atkinson people incline to a primary. At this writing it is not known what are the preferences of the committee. what are the preferences of the committee.

If a majority of the committee are for Evans a mass meeting may be called. The Telegraph, which is strongly supporting Atkinson, advocates primaries. This applies to Bibb as well as to other counties. If a primary is held the contest will be close, exciting and uncertain. Not very much enthusiasm is manifested yet, but a primary is also leaves to the counter of the contest will be close, exciting and uncertain. mary is calculated to arouse it. Bibb may yet see some fun in the gubernatorial fight. Chairman Gustin's call does not say for what purpose the committee will meet, but the principal object of the meeting is the gubernatorial question. GAVE THE PLOT AWAY. ,

A Negro Prisoner Saves the Life of His Jailer.

Albany, Ga., May 15.—(Special.)—Jailer Tiner narrowly missed being murdered in jail in this city this morning and the only thing that saved him was the faithfulness of one of the prisoners, who gave the plot away. Tiner had gone in to give the prisoners their breakfast. He was called to the cell of an old negro who gave him the information that the inmates of an adjoining cell had plotted to kill him when he opened their cell to give them their breakfast. Investigation on the part of the jailer confirmed the information which he had received. The prisoners had a razor and intended to cut his throat. John Crooms, the negro murderer of Worth county, will be brought to this city tonight by an officer who arrested him after a desperate resistence at Josselyn.

HARDY MARINERS. They Spend Six Days in a Small Boat

Rowing for Port.
Savannah, Ga., May 15.—(Special.)—A life boat from the steamship Clandeboyl, con-taining four weather-beaten seamen, pulled up at Exchange dock this morning. That British steamship was lost about 170 miles off the Bahamas, after breaking her shaft, April 22d. After waiting some days in vain for assistance from a passing vessel Captain Strickland determined to send a boatload of men to some port. First Mate Harry Hayes and William Thomas Donnelly and Henry Olsen agreed to go. They arrived here today, after rowing for six days. The trip was a perilous one, and it was with dif-ficulty that they weathered a squall which struck the boat two days ago. They came here to make arrangements to get a tow boat and other assistance to bring the Clan-deboyl into port. . The Reaction Is Hurting. Athens, Ga., May 15 .- (Special.)-The Atkinson men here are fearfully sore over the Oconee outrage and realize that they are losing ground daily on account of it. Every imaginable excuse is being offered in their effort to stem the tide of indignation which is sweeping away Atkinson's strength in Clarke.

It is reported that an effort will be made by the Atkinson men here to induce their allies in Oconee to order a legal primary, believeing that it would be much better to lose Oconee's votes than to let the influence of this action continue its operations against their candidate.

WILDCAT OR TIGER.

Colonel Thomas M. Norwood Writes a Second Scathing Letter.

BANKING SYSTEMS ARE COMPARED

The East's Is Condemned-State Ranks Better Than National Banks-Cleveland and the Plutocracy of Wall Street.

Savannah, Ga., May 11.—To the Democracy of the South: When I closed my first com-munication I was speaking of the betrayal of the south by the eastern leaders in the democratic party and of the conspiracy of those leaders and the republicans to re-duce the south and west to financial slav-

When the late war was hottest; when pa riots were at the front to save the union the bankers and manufacturers in the east were there, too, by substitutes, and at the same time were at home plotting to put into operation the following scheme to divide the wealth of the country. The former mere to have the monopoly of banking and the latter a monopoly of trade in manufactured goods. To obtain a monop-oly of trade the perpetual subsidy or penon in the winsome form of protection to American idustries was forced upon the country. So odlous was it that the advo-cates of the measure were forced to prom-ise its repeal as soon as peace returned. The banking monopoly being more com-plex was less understood by its victims and, therefore, less resisted; besides, it had the seductive charm of being called "national," a word at that time bewilderingly fascinating. Briefly told, it was to give to the very few who owned government bonds the exclusive right to organize banks for loan. Thus the most powerful monopoly, the one of all most dangerous to liberty and democracy ever known in the history of civilization, was created; for a monopoly of the nower to control the fine process of of the power to control the finances of of the power to control the finances of a country is a monopoly to control all other business and the whole people. "Give mg control of the currency and I will rule the state," is the insoluble crystal of all experience of mankind. Thus congress gave what it did not have; thus congress usurped a power which the people reserved and had exercised up to 1861. The limit of the power of congress is "to coin money and to regulate the value thereof." It has no power to give to the owners of a certain kind of to give to the owners of a certain kind of property (bonds) the exclusive right to bank—a monopoly of banking. The democratic doctrine is that congress has mo power over the citizen's method of using coin in trade. The people of each state, acting sep arately, had regulated its use, had pre-scribed the per cent of interest; in fact, had free and unrestricted control of their financial affairs until this devouring mon-ster was littered of the bloody womb of war.

To make the monopoly perfect it was necessary to destroy all competition. This was done by taxing all state banks to death, unless they might have the vitality sufficient unless they might have the vitality sufficient to survive the loss of 10 per cent per annum of the amount of their bills.

The third bonus to these monopolists was by a deadly blow at farmers and landlords. They were excluded form the portals of this temple of Mammon by denying to. their property all bankable value. A million in land could not borrow one dollar. Owners of land must approach this temple vicariously. They must pay two interests—one to the bank, the other to the middle man who the bank, the other to the middle man who borrows of the bank for them. Thus the conspiracy by the commercial east was planned to hold in subjection to the east the agricultural south and west.

The fourth crushing power of the monopolists followed as a necessary sequence to the third, for, as the third destroyed land as collateral, bonds and stocks and commercial paper were to be the only collaterals for loans. The fine "Italian hand" hereby disclosed is yielded. hereby disclosed is visible in the fact that the bankers were, in the main, the owners of the stocks and bonds. The borrower must buy stocks and bonds of the bankers to hypothecate as collaterals in the banks. The bankers thus squeezed the borrower by fix-ing their own price on the collaterals to be bought by the borrower before he could get a loan.

But a fifth advantage held by the bankers was the most destructive of all. They had in hand a commercial device as seduc-tive as the siren is to youth, as merciless as death, as beautiful outside as a whited sepulcher and full inside with dead men's bones. I mean their exchanges, where these bones. I mean their exchanges, where these collaterals are hourly churned up and down; where the paradox is ever present that a fictitious value is the real value of stocks and bonds; where the value of stocks hypothecated in banks may be reduced in an hour by a baseless rumor to a figure below the amount of the loan and the stock be instantly thrown on the market and sacrificed; where hundreds of millions of very ficed; where hundreds of millions of valu able collaterals have thus been destroyed. Real values are not considered. The "tick-er" marks the value, the gamblers work the "ticker," and the banks follow the gamblers. They gamble in your stocks with the aid of the banks and take the little you

It will be asked, perhaps, indignantly, what connection is there between those eastern banks and the stock exchanges? None by statute, but a fatal one in practice. They act in concert. The banks lend on stocks and bonds; the exchanges gamble in stocks and bonds. The gamblers mark the collaterals up and down and fix their prices and the banks will accept no other price, and when they demand of a borrower more collateral because the gamblers have marked the prices down and the borrower cannot respond, the banks send the collat eral to the gamblers' pit to be sold at their own prices. This is an important part of the financial system of the east. The bank-ers know that the values fixed by the gamblens are fictitious. What is $9 a share compared to the real value or Georgia Cen-tral stock? In 1881 the stock of the Geor-gia Central railroad was richly worth $150. She was the pride of Georgia and the support of thousands. But the pimps and pro curers for the east, nosing for victims, found her, dragged her into their den, where she was prostituted and despoiled and then kicked out on the street to beg her way or die. From 150 to 9 tells her story. But yesterday a jeweled queen; to-day ravished, robbed, ruined; a beggar, begging even her despoilers to lift her on her feet.

The late financial panic that shook to pieces hundreds of t.ese, cardhouse banks unveiled the connection, the ligament between these Slamese twins. Both are supported by the blood drawn from the public, More of these ironclad, bombproof "national" banks went down during the panic than all the "wildcat" banks under state control from the establishment of the government to 1861. Many of them collapsed because they had been looted by because they had been looted by their presidents, cashiers, and direc-tors in gambling in the exchanges, "bearing" or "builing" the stocks and bonds held in their banks as collaterals.

The sixth is the anaconda power of this monopoly. It cannot be better described or illustrated than by citing the present un-happy condition of our country. It has the tractile power to crush a continent, and it has held in its merciless coil for four years of angony over 60,000,000 people. One banking house in London, from a speculative venture in South America, became embarrassed. Instantly the eastern bankers selzed on this rumble in South America as a pretext for a contraction that has shattered thousands of the strongest houses and shrunk the poverty of this country more than 20 per cent, or more than $10,000,000,000. Had depositors genearly become alarmed few, if any banks in the east could have stood a "run" for a day. Yet this is the banking system that is the perfection of human wisdom, and that by combination with manufacturers and exchanges holds the south in vassalage and comparative pauperism.

It is a seeming paradox in physics and dynamics that the claw of a crab which can pinch to the bone is so slightly articulated that a baby can break it off. This banking system, so powerful to crush, is so weak at its base that a few small depositors in New York, by concert of action last summer, could have forced every bank to suspend. So sensible were the officers of this result that they had to turn back to back to prop themselves up and took refuge for safety in refusing to pay out currency and in using certificates of credit. Even depositors had to use these certificates.

In that terrible crisis had it not been that our southern banks were under management of men of the highest personal honor and commercial integrity—men of the class who presided over and directed our state banks men whose caution, conservatism and abli-ity won public confidence, who were not and are not speculators in Wall street and who would not imperil depositors for any possi-ble gain to themselves—the south would have been overwhelmed in one common ruin, And yet when we ask for state banks those conspirators cry "wildcat" in chorus It is better for the people to meet the wildcat on rare occasions than to be torn to pleces daily by the Wall street tiger; it is better to encounter a wildcat in the open, with a chance for life, than to be dragged under by the man-eating, the widow-eating the orphan-eating shark and devoured in I have said so much of this "national" monopoly—national only in name but oppressively sectional in its operation, being practically owned by Wall street-first, because its fatal methods are not generally known and, second, because we can now under stand why the east is so determined to maintain this matrix of plutocracy and why it exhibits such vicious temper when we ask for the partial relief that state banks would give us. We know the ruling passion of that people too well to hope they will ever surrender a monopoly so luscious, one by which they receive one bonus and draw three separate interests on one capital, the first being exemption from taxation on their bonds; second, interest on their bonds third, interest on the bank bills issued to them on their bonds; and, fourth, interest on depositors' money. They will not relax their grip on a system by which they lend on paper collateral only, which they can depreciate in their exchanges and sacrific by forced sales; by which they can contract the currency and breed panics at will; by which they can depreciate any and every kind of property and buy them in at great gain; by which they hold the south and west at their mercy; by which the depositor take the risk and the banks take the profits by which the presidents and cashiers and directors gamble in the exchange on the very collaterals they hold and "bear" them and ruin the borrower; by which the sout and west have been forced to contribute to the east many billions of dollars in inter-est, in the destruction of values, in the wreck of railroads, by their monopolized power to heat down, to hammer down, in their side-show exchanges, corn, wheat, oats, cotton, rice, sugar, the products of your sweat and toll, below the cost of pro duction. Yes, there are hundreds of mil-lions in those bank vaults today anxiously awaiting the call of the speculators in you hardearned produce, but not one dollar to be had on the soil that feeds and clothes them; hundreds of millions always held in leash for speculators to prey on commerce, to devour widows and orphans, to tear down and ruin existing industries, to wreck our railroads, but not a dollar to lend to the south to build factories, to open mines and make laborers happy by employment.

Yet we are constantly told, "There is money enough for all; indeed, too much." I agree that there is enough, and far too much, in the eastern states—too much for the welfare, the comfort and peace of the south and west-but it is anchored there made by monopolies out of us, and held fo speculation on us; there is enough, but they can see it, but they are like the ancien mariner, who from his wreck saw Water, water everywhere, But not a drop to drink. am not opposed to banks. Far from it I oppose this eastern monopoly; I oppose the conspiracy. I abhor injustice and de-spise the doer of it. I want justice for the south and it is for this reason and no other that I am giving my humble views on our deplorable situation. I earnestly wish that every southern state had banks with capital enough to issue safely $40 per capita And this is the point of deadly struggle be-tween this monopoly and the people. This is the Mont St. Jean of the impending Waterloo. The eastern monopolists contro the currency; control its volume; control trade; control prices; control; congress; control the country, and now control the only standard of value With state banks the south and west would escape the death awaiting them, currency in the south would increase, in-terest would stay at home, crops could be ved so demand, contraction for a raid or squeeze would be impossible, expansion could al-ways meet the demand for money, industries would multiply in every city and county, cotton would be spun at home and the profits belong to the south and not to those conspirators, the eastern manufactu rers and banks.

We can now see more clearly the conspi-racy between the bankers and manufacturers. Their interests are one and are an tagonistic to the south and west. If the south could build factories to spin her cot-ton, could make her wooden ware and agricultural implements, manufacture iro utensils, tan her hides, manufacture her shoes and harness, press her cotton seed and refine her oil, refine her suger, etc. the eastern manufacturer would lose If the south could borrow at home, be ndependent of Wall street, could market her stocks and bonds at home, the banks in the east would lose. The two would lose hundreds of millions a year, which, of course, the south would gain. It is, therefore, to the joint interest of the easter fore, to the joint interest of the eastern protectionists and banks that the south shall not rise from the dust where they have held her for twenty-eight years.

But what have the democratic leaders in the east to do with this conspiracy? In that section trade is the stock on which everything is grafted. Politics is presented. everything is grafted. Politics is no excep-tion. Democrats and republicans unite their politics in trade. This could be illustrated innumerably. Philadelphia is overwhelmingly republican, yet democrats and republi united to keep Samuel J. Randall in cans united to keep Samuel J. Randall in congress to guard protection. Democracy is the very antithesis of protection, but democrats by name helped to hold a pro-tectionist in congress. When the Morri-son bill and the Mills bill to reduce the tariff were up, Mr. Randall, followed by other eastern democrats, so-called, defeated reduction. Politics in the east is not principle—it is business, it is trade.

A manufacturer—a democrat—who lives in that elysium of protection will contribute to the republican fund to defeat his own party. That is business. He does not consider the eternal principles of justice and equality; he does not care that sixty million people are forced by law to contribute to his support. He thinks it right because he is the pensioner and because it is trade. Democrats and republicans are almost a unit on the banking system; on monometal-lism; on the currency. There are sources of lism; on the currency. There are sources of wealth which are an equal benefit to both. They only differ on protection in the ratio of benefits or losses to the individual. If a democrat is not protected he opposes protection; if protected he is to that extent

I must defer for want of space, what I will say of the betrayal of the south, and, as I have said all I intend to say of the conspiracy, and as one of the conspirators is the tariff, I will avail myself of this opportune moment to express my gratitud to President Cleveland for the very valu able services he has rendered the whole country, and especially the south, in combating one of these twin monsters, the tar iff. He was the first and only president in thirty years who had the courage to strike it a blow. True it is he was differently reared and instructed. His predecessors had reared and instructed. His predecessors had been reared in its lair; they had been nurtured on it and fattened by it, as Romulus and Remus were nursed by a she wolf in her den. They could not be expected to strike the dug that 'gave them suck.'

Revs. Waters and Hart replied to Mr. Collins in feeling terms and evoked the hearty "amens" of the assemblage.

The election of an editor for The Christion Index, and a book agent was the next business taken up. Much discussion took place, some of the brethren favoring that one man act in the capacity of editor and book agent. Many speeches were made both pro and con. It was finally decided that two men should be elected.

Rev. G. H. Phillips, D.D., of Kentucky, was elected editor by a handsome majority. Rev. Phillips, in thanking the conference,

I had been treated by some of the most eminent physicians, had exhausted the virtue of cod liver oil, and all the patent asthma and catarrh cures I could hear of, and all to no avail. BAPTISTS ADJOURN.

Some Come Home and Others Start on an Excursion.

Dallas, Tex., May 15.—The delegates and visitors to the Baptist convention com-menced to leave yesterday and last night and this morning outgoing trains were loaded, many of them carrying additional odate the extra coaches in order to accomi travel. There were, however, enough left in town today to fill the tabernacle and make apparently as large a crowd as ever. The convention was called to order at 9 o'clock this morning by President Harral-son. The usual devotional exercises were gone through with. The convention ad-dressed itself to unfinished business and the committee on home work, which occupied the convention all yesterday. When this was dispatched several resolutions were read, among them one extending a vote of thanks to the press of the city for the ex-haustive and accurate reports made of the proceedings of the convention and for the kind treatment generally the delegates and visitors have received. It was ordered that 10,000 copies of the printed proceedings of the convention be distributed, and that in future a full official programme in advance be printed and adhered to through-

The vice president's report was then read, and as it was very voluminous, it took some time as well as paper. The committees on foreign missions, on home mis sions and on Sunday schools were re-elected for the ensuing year and their headquarters will continue at Richmond, Atlanta and Nashville respectfully.

The committee on basis of representation The committee on basis of representation reported in favor of a reduction of the representation on the ground that the body is getting unwieldy. A vote was taken on the suggestion, which was voted down. In response to this invitation a communication was received this morning from the Christians, or Campbellites, which was presented to Rev. T. M. Davis, who represented a committee appointed for that purpose by the general convention of the disciples. The paper sets forth that there is no difference between the two denominations on the point of baptism and that there is no reason why there might not be organic unity between them. The communication was referred to a special committee of five, with instructions to prepare a courteous and fraternal response to the disciples. The committee is composed of Rev. F. M. Kerfoot, of Kentucky, W. E. Hatcher, of Virginia; George B. Eager, of Alabama; J. B. Hawthorne, of Georgia, and B. H. Carroll, of Texas.

The question of the consolidation of the home field and foreign mission boards was referred to a special committee.

The People Demand Primaries.

The democrats of the state are so overwhelmingly in favor of primaries that the mass meeting plan will not be resorted to during this campaign, except in counties where there is no contest, and in others where "the men who control" are resolved to rule or ruin.

Even The Macon Telegraph recognizes the trend of public sentiment and prudently drifts along with it. Our contem porary joins The Constitution in demanding primaries, and says that they are more certain to express the popular will. It urges the executive committee of Bibb to call a primary in order to give the peo ple of that county an opportunity to vote directly for the gubernatorial candidate of their choice, and makes the point that this method prevents bad feeling and charges of unfairness.

It is to be hoped that the newspapers friendly to Mr. Atkinson will follow the example of The Telegraph in this matter and call for primaries. A primary has been ordered in Fulton, General Evans's home county, because he and his supporters are anxious to give the people every possible chance to vote for the man of their choice. Now, let the other counties follow on this line and all will be well.

In this campaign it will not do to try the snap-shot programme. We must have a nomination that will satisfy the great majority of democrats or there will be trouble. After the nomination we must confront the third party and its ticket. and unless we present a solid front and a united party it is safe to say that we shall have a hard fight on our hands.

The primary is the thing!

More Bonds---More Taxes. Another movement in the gold struggle is shortly to be made in Europe, and thoughtful students of current events will watch with interest its effect on the situation here. If our financial system were of th ple's making-that is to say, if it were framed to fit our own conditions and to conform to the demands and necessities of our own industrial and productive forces, the effect of a new demand for gold in Europe would be represented by a cipher. If we were permitted to take advantage of our own resources and commercial power, our whole stock of gold might gradually go abroad to ease the situation in Europe and raise prices there, and not a ripple would be created on the surface of the situation here.

But, unfortunately, our financial sys tem has been practically dictated by foreign bankers. The bunghole of the people's treasury has been tilted toward Europe, so that when there is a chill in Lombard street there is a rigor in Wall street, and presently the evidences of an ague in our treasury. As a banking institution the treasury department of the United States is run almost entirely In the interest of the agents of foreign bankers who make their business home In Wall street. We are so situated that when the gold dealers in London touch the button our treasury is compelled to do the rest.

If our currency system were upon the broad basis of bimetallism our people would care nothing about the struggle for gold that periodically takes place in Europe. For instance, the news that Austria is about to issue a new gold loan would fall upon indifferent ears. But now, with gold as the sole basis of our circulating medium, a new demand for the yellow metal in any European state becomes of immense importance to the people of the United States.

Therefore, the announcement that Austria has again taken a step toward the accumulation of gold is of surpassing interest to those who are watching with curious eyes the deadly results to business and trade of the increasing purchasing power of the dollar based on gold. The lower house of the Austrian parliament has just passed a resolution providing for the withdrawal from circulation of $67,000,000 worth of silver notes and the depositing in the Austro-Hungarian bank of $53,000,000 in gold-the gold to be bought by the state. The importance of this announcement rests in the fact that a new gold debt in Austria or in any other European state means a new gold debt for the people of the United States. This statement represents the facts and the logic of the situation. A few months ago Austria had occasion to is me bonds on which to borrow gold. Following this, Mr. Carlisle conceived it to be his duty to saddle the people of this country with $50,000,000 of debt in order to borrow gold. His excuse was that the funds of the treasury were running low.

But there were plenty of available funds to tide the treasury over. It was the gold he desired to replenish. He had taken down every barrier between the people's gold and the foreign bankers, and the result was that every dollar of gold that the Austrian loan called for had been drawn from the fund held in the treasury to redeem the greenbacks.

We have heard of the man who sneezed when his master took snuff. That was a voluntary tribute. The tribute which the single gold standard compels the taxpayers of the United States to pay is to saddle themselves with a new interestbearing debt every time one of the European monarchies wants to add to its tock of gold. Already since the 1st of April something like $21,000,000 of our gold supply has been exported, and every dollar of it has come or will come out of the treasury reserve. Every dollar of the $53 .-000,000 of gold necessary to take the place of the Austro-Hungarian silver notes will come out of the treasury reserve. Then Wall street will discover that there is a threatening necessity for a new bond issue of $50,000,000 or $100,-000,000, and then, when Wall street gives the word, the bonds will be issued. The beauty about these bond issues is that the people are not consulted about them. Even congress is not asked to give its consent. Compared with this system of fastening an interest-bearing debt on the people, taxation without representation is the essence of liberty and fustice. But the levying of a new and an authorized debt is not more serious than the fact that every dollar of gold taken from the treasury and exported contracts the volume of money in circulation to just that extent. Our currency has been contracted since 1891-not only the fact that it is made redeemable in gold alone. but to the amount of the gold that has been exported, and also to the amount of the bonds that have been issued. Thoughtful persons who are engaged in studying the money question have had the advantage of object lessons that are rare in the financial history of any country, and the end is not yet.

The Government and the Exposition

The Cotton States and International exposition committee made a very favorable impression yesterday upon the house appropriations committee.

Prominent delegates from Atlanta and other southern cities made brief speeches. They all spoke to the point, and laid special stress upon the advantages that will accrue to every section from closer trade relations with the countries south of us. The point was also made that the Nicaragua canal will make our Atlantic ports more accessible to the South Americans, and will naturally increase their traffic with the Spanish-American countries.

The negro delegates made good speeches and they were heard, with interest.

The questions asked by the members of the congressional committee indicated their desire to recommend government aid for the exposition, and it may now be regarded as a certainty that the government will be represented by a building and an exhibit costing something like $500,000

The exposition committee did a splendid day's work yesterday, and Atlanta's great enterprise will now move forward with renewed energy and enthusiasm.

Not a Bad Idea.

The New York legislature has passed the following amendment to the libel law of that state.

Any person who willfully states, delivers or transmits by any means whatever to any manager, editor, publisher, reporter or other employe of a publisher of any newspaper, magazine, publication, periodical or serial, any statement concerning any person or corporation, which if application son or corporation, which, if published therein, would be a libel, is guilty of

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat endorses this amendment, and says that it has for years made it a rule to send all libelous communications to the persons libeled, with the name and address of the libeler, instead of printing the epistles. "In this way," says our contemporary, "we are happy to record we have brought about several very interesting fist fights.'

They Are Not Wanted.

An army is now organizing in New England to march on Washington for the purpose of protecting property and keep ing the peace.

The recruits in the new organization are union veterans, and they have taken an oath to risk their lives, if necessary, in defense of the government. One of the objects of the movement is to ask congress to pass some measure of financial relief and to reform the pension sys-

While this so-called army claims to be an anti-Coxey affair, the probability is that it will make itself a nuisance if it ever gets to Washington. These organized tramps are not wanted in this country, and if their members will be half as energetic in seeking work as they are in getting up their traveling picnics they will have no difficulty in earning a living, and they will be too busy to pay any attention to the cranky reformers who are now giving the public and the gov ernment so much trouble. The authorities can easily protect prop erty and keep the peace without the aid of volunteers who propose to beg their way through the country. The Coxey and anti-Coxey armies should be dis banded.

In the Wrong Business. We are inclined to agree with The Buffalo Times in the opinion that the men who have gone into the dress-mak ing business in this country are engaged in an occupation which should be left to

In Buffalo there are more than a half dozen men dressmakers, and they may be found in every large northern and western city. The ladies of a generation ago would have fainted at the idea of allowing a clumsy male brute to measure them and fit their garments. But today the maid or matron goes into the room of the man dressmaker, takes off her things and rattles away while he scissor about her neck, bust and arms, and she feels no more embarrassment than she would feel in her private apartments in the presence of those of her own sex. It is an abominable European fad, and no good can result from it. The new fashion will not give us better dresses, manners or morals

Cholera in Europe.

Advices from London state that Hebrew emigrants in large numbers are leaving Russia at Odessa, Last week 1.400 left that city for the United States. In view of the fact that cholera has prevailed in Russia all winter, and is now epidemic near Odessa and other European ports, it will be necessary for the health authorities in this country to be on their guard against immigrants and baggage from across the water.

It would be a horrible climax to our season of depression if the plague should land on our shores and begin its deathdealing march across the continent.

A Word of Warning.

Information comes to us that there will be an effort to vote third party men, republicans and negroes in the primary in Hall county next Saturday for Mr. Atkinson. We have the statement from reliable parties. It may be exaggerated and hence we will not print it. But we warn the democrats of Hall that such a movement is on foot.

The primary next Saturday in Hall is a democratic primary, and the managers should see to it that none but democrats vote. If the scheme as given is carried out we shall print the facts, and the facts will hurt the parties who are connected with it.

Says a writer in The Chicago Herald: "A speculator told me of a new business—at least I had not heard of it. "There are men in this city," he said, 'who are on the tant lookout for corner buildings. They will rent an eligible corner storeroom and at once proceed to have it reconstructed. When it is ready for occupancy it contain from three to five small storerooms, and each one will rent for nearly as much as the speculator pays for the entire corner tradesman with a little stock will pay as much for a cubbyhole of a place as he would for a big room. I can't explain why, but I know it is so. I know one Chicago who has six principal corner and he has cut up each one into small stores, and is making a handsonie income out of it."

President Cleveland found out something nteresting about "old colonial" furniture when he was taken to the historic Mary Washington residence at Fredericksburg, Va., after the ceremonres on Thursday When he was shown the old-fashioned high-curtained bed of the Washingtons, he said he would like to put it to a practical test, and proceeded to stretch himself out at full length on the sacred couch. When he had done this he was informed, amid the laughter of the party, that the furniture was a pious fraud intended to simula original was supposed to have The good-natured executive received the sally of amusement with equanimity remarking that the party must take the wish for the deed.

The next step of progress in the cheapen ing of transportation in countries having good roads will be, it seems, in the larger use of wagons propelled by steam. Such ve-Mcles, it is found, having broad-tired wheels, improve instead of injuring the roads they are used upon. Those of the latest type are cheaper in use than wagons drawn by horses, provided the freight offering for carriage is abundant in amou and steady in supply. Steam wagons crowded streets occupy less space than horse-drawn vehicles. In army times they are on this account of special value and are about being used by some governments. The horse, besides taking up space in the road, must stop at intervals to eat and sleep, whereas the steam wagon can go twenty-four hours a day. steam wagon, in fact, has every advantage that the locomotive and train have over the wagon train drawn by horses, except that of a smooth steel rail and easy grades to run upon. It is worth while for our inventors to consider whether between our large cities and where good roads exist there is not an unsupplied need for a steam wagon that will work better than those

ABOUT THE GOVERNORSHIP

The Macon Evening News says, in eading editorial: "Some of the polyfoxing followers of Mr. Atkinson are getting badly muddled over the situation. Things are getting mightily catawampused and the skies are anythi but cerulean in hue. Telfair turned the pictures of 'those who control' to the wall; Baldwin county, which they thought had been securely saited down, comes forward and proclaims her undying determination not to be controlled their overzealous friends in kicked all the fat in the fire by the unut-terably indiscreet exposure of the Atkinson methods in attempting to palm off the un authorized action of a little party of trick sters as the legitimate expression of the county's democracy. The wretched little flasco in Oconee is enough to make them cry out in the agony of their souls and ask to be saved from their friends, for it show: to what desperate straits they are reduced and convicts them of a determination to foist their man upon the people at any cost. The Atkinson contingent is showing unmistakably that it is badly hacked by its continuous but impotent cries of 'boo-dle,' 'me too' and the like, but there is no use juggling with the truth, it is evino use juggling with the truth, it is evident that the boomlet is pluming its flight for the golden hence.' The Rome Tribune says, editorially:

"In Oconee a meeting was held to elect an executive committee and no notice was given that delegates were to be elected. It resolved itself with thirty-three, coolly pocketed the delegation for Atkinson. This, of course, will not stand. The Telfair trick of holding the primary seventeen miles from the county seat was rebuked by defeat, and Saturday's victory showed clear that the people of other counties did no that the people of other counties did not endorse such methods. All General Evans asks is fair play. The only fair way to select delegates is by primary, and the Atkinson courthouse rings seem to have strange aversion to primaries. There is surer plan to disrupt the party than to re-sort to unfair methods in nominating can-didates. It weakens the nomination and gives excuse for defection in the ensuing election. If we are going to have harmon hereafter, we must have fair play. It time to stop this snap convention business.

The Augusta Chronicle has this paragraph:
"Atkinson's followers are in some instances as brazen as himself. The Dalton Argus says a prominent Atkinson man re-marked to The Argus yesterday: 'How do you like the way we "stole" Douglas county? Well, we are going to get a good many that way, take 'em whether they will or no. All's fair in love, war and politics.'" The Augusta Evening News says of Gen-

The political ring who are lending their support to the distinguished gentieman from Coweta are commencing to feel that things are looking blue, as they see countles which they had confidently claimed put down in the Evans column, and are at work searching most diligently for some scrap of rumor concerning General Evans's life or actions.

ollowing interesting story:
"As a general thing it is only in novels that retributive justice seizes the villian at the moment of the commission of a great crime, but occasionally it happens in rea life. A case in point is the following: Dur ing the days of slavery a negro slave name Rolla Banks was carried from this county to Missouri by Rev. Mitchell. In due tim the slaves were freed and Banks, being frugal and industrious, accumulated con-siderable property. His children grew up and moved away, he knew not Yearning for the sympathies and ministra-tions of relatives he sent to this county about half a dozen years ago for his nephew, John Evans, agreeing to leave hi property to Evans on condition that the latter would take care of him during the remainder of his life. After a year or two Evans grew tired of waiting for his old uncle to die, and resolved to hasten the desired event. The latter lived in a cabin uot far from the one occupied by his nephew. Evans went one night to his un-cle's house, poured coal oil on it in various places and set it on fire. In doing so he got a quantity of oil on his own cloth-ing. The old man, awakened by the flames, rushed to the door and attempted to escape. He was met by his nephew who sunk an ax deep into his victim's skull, and the old man fell oack into the flames. As the latter opened the door, however, the flames followed him and in a moment the oil-soaked clothes of the murderer were in flames. He attempted to beat off the flames and in his agony jumped into an adjacent well and was drowned. The murderer and his victim were buried together. No claimants appeared for the property which has caused the crime and it escheat ed to the state."

Mrs. Emmet Ellis, who lives with her husband a few miles east of Lebanon, Ky., had a thrilling experience a few days since. Saturday morning Mr. Ellis went a short distance to a neighbor's house, leaving his wife alone. Shortly after his departure a knock on the door attracted Mrs. Ellis's attention. Thinking her husband had re-turned, she opened the door without asking who was there. Her surprise to see instead of her husband two negro men can hardly be imagined. The latter immediately made inquiry for her husband. She answered that he was hear by. The negroes said this was a d-n lie, and walked juto the house, pulling the door to after them. The same question was again asked, answered and re-ceived as before, only the negroes added that they knew Ellis had gone to town. Mrs. Ellis at once realized the situation Seizing a revolver she presented it at the men, who, in turn, drew pistols and threat-ened to kill her, but by this time she had moved backward to the door, which she threw open and rushed into the yard, screaming at the top of her voice. This alarmed the villalns, who ran into the woods near by and made good their escape.'

The Largest Rose Bush. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"The largest rose bush in the United States is in Mobile, Ain.," said H. L. Thornton, of New Orleans, as he strolled around the corridor of the Lindell last evening. "It belongs to the species which, in common parlance is because the discovery and the common parlance is the characteristic discovery." "It belongs to the species which, in common parlance, is known as the cluster-musk rose, and blossoms so luxuriantly that during the season from three to four bushels or roses have been gathered in one week, and when shedding its petals the ground beneath is completely covered with its fragrant blossoms. Its trunk, for five feet from the ground, is nearly a foot in circumference, and it has been estimated that if its branches grew in one continuous vinc it would exceed a mile in length. These branches have entirely covered the side of a house near which the bush grows, and have extended to the neighboring trees surrounding it, so that when it is in bloom it forms a perfect bower of roses." The Murder of Old Mrs. Lilly Last Saturday Night.

NEGRO'S

Or Was the Killing the Act of a White ManP-Some Developments May Come in a Day or Two.

Mystery is still written on the front of last Saturday night's tragedy.

A new phase in the situation, however, has developed, and there are many who believe that Robert Hawkins and his alleged accessory, George Yancey, are ig-norant of the crime perpetrated. Instead of a negro it is now a strong supposition that a white man is the author of the foul deed.

But here the supposition ends. No one can place the crime and the reality of Mrs. Lilly's murderer is still undisclosed. Perhaps the aged lady was the only witness of the crime and the secret may sleep with her until the last great day.

On the other hand, the murderer may be even now on the verse of discovery. of the foul deed.

even now on the verge of discovery. Was It a Negro's Job?

Was It a Negro's Job?

There is strong circumstantial evidence against the negro now at the police station, but the question arises, after a careful view of the killing, was it a negro's job?

A circumstance in favor of the negro is the fact that his own trunk was broken open, together with the other trunks and closets in the house, and from his appearance he hardly seems to be shrewd enough for such a strategem. In the second place, ance he narray seems to be shrewd enough for such a strategem. In the second place, it is urged, that having killed Mrs. Lilly, the negro would never have had the courage to come back to the place in which she was lying and strike a match. Again, it is was lying and strike a match. Again, it is claimed that a negro would never have used a pair of tongs as the instrument of death. His nature is brutal when aroused and he lacks the knowledge that would en-able him to use a pair of tongs success-a delicate touch in the hand of the assailant and a kindness about the cruelty which hurried the old lady into eternity.

His object was money, whether the murderer was black or white. He knew the place, because every nook in the house was invaded. It was a man who had the right to go and come when he had the right to go and come when he pleased, whether black or white, and whose presence in the house never excited the old lady's suspicion.

These are only theories, of course. There s nothing definite, and no particular man is suspected.

In the meantime, the negroes are in safe keeping and their preliminary hearing may throw considerable light upon the situation. A Reward to Be Offered. A reward for the murderer will no doubt be offered during the present week. This will stimulate the investigation and may lead to a speedy apprehension of the guilty man.

The Lilly boys will probably offer a large

From The Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I had a glimpse of life in the Kentucky mountains the other day that I will not soon forget," said a capitalist. "I made a trip into that section as a representative of a syndicate to look at some coal lands. I went as far as I could by rail and then took a horse and rade into the wilderness. took a horse and rode into the wilderness.
Toward night I brought up at a little cabin, of which I had been previously informed, and made arrangements to speud the night there. This cabin was about twenty feet long by about twelve feet wide. On the ground floor it was all one room. Above was a loft to which access was gained by means of a ladder and a hole in the floor.

There was a little corn growing around the place, and there were two hogs. In the rear of the cabin was a low shed, open at one end and with a slanting roof. It was just big enough to hold a cow at night. The cow, which was a lean, woe-begone animal, the two hogs and the corn constituted apparently, the entire assets of the place.

"In this establishment were living a man and his wife and eight children, the eldest being twelve years. They lived on corn meal and milk, with occasionally some pork. Both the man and the woman were barefooted. The elder children had elothes enough to cover their nakedness, but the younger were not so fortunate. The man younger were not so fortunate. The man seemed to be a slow, dull sort of a fellow, who had lived in destitution so long that he had become used to it.

"The woman was different. Her face wore an expression of abject despair. If a painter had wanted a model for a picture, entitled, 'Hopelessness,' he need have gone no further. After supper the man went out to feed the hogs and the cow and do other 'chores.' I talked to the woman for about an hour and succeeded with great difficulty in getting her story. Her pride stood in the way of her telling me anything for a long time. During all the time in which she talked the expression of dullistiessness, to which her face had become habituated, never left it but once. Then a look of something like happiness came over habituated, never left it but once. Then a look of something like happiness came over her features. This was when she said that they had not always been poor. 'We weren't always this way,' she said. 'We were well off once. We saved enough, him and me, so that we were rich. We had $27 laid away once.' That was her idea of wealth. Twenty-seven dollars? She went on to say that the children had come feet a core had to be bought and that went on to say that the children had come fast, a cow had to be bought and that she cost $18. The children had fallen sick and a doctor had to be brought in from civilization, and he cost $5, and so it went till their fortune had gone, and they had nething left of their more and $27.

"The next morning I paid them my lodging. I had slept in the loft and the family had slept in the room below. None of them took off their clothes. I had brought with me a huge lot of roast beef sandwiches and ate these for my supper and breakfast, for I had been warned that I probably could not get anything to eat there. Before leaving I took $27 and, wrapping it up in a newspaper, left it on the table in the middle of the room. Then I rode away feeling vastly pleased with myself, and kuowing that there was one mountaineer's family in Kentucky that had recovered its lost fortune."

TWO WERE EXAMINED THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

Young Henry W. Grady and W. M. Many Delegates Are Here to Attend the Enthusiastic Meeting of Directors of the Harper Made Lawyers.

PASSED IN FINE SHAPE BOTH

The Examinations Were Exceedingly Severe-Friends of the Two Young Men May Congratulate Them.

Two splendid examinations were passed yesterday in Judge Lumpkin's chambers by Henry W. Grady and W. M. Harper. The examination passed by both was above the ordinary and especial mention is deserved. Henry Grady is well known in Atlanta and throughout the state, not on account of the memory of his distinguished father alone, but of himself. He is a young man of exceptional ability.

For some time young Grady was at Sewanee college, where he studied law, making a fine record. When he returned to Atlanta he decided to make law his life profession and with this idea in view settled down to hard work in the office of Dorsey, Brewster & Howell. Under the direction of this able firm he has been reading to fine advantage.

The examination of Mr. Grady was a severe one, and that he passed it with credit is sufficient praise. He was examined in every phase of law and proved himself well up on the most intricate questions involved in equity and constitution and rules. His examiners were N. L. Hutchins, Jr., in code and equity; A. H. Davis, in common law; Hon. E. W. Martin, in pleading and practice, and Mr. W. H. Black, in constitutions are unless that the second state of the second secon

With the fine prestige that his name will give him, Henry Grady will doubtless make for himself in his chosen profession such a mark as his honored father won in journalism. Possessed of his father's peculiar sympathetic tact, he makes friends easily and by his courtesy and affability. keeps them. Not only has he a career as a lawyer before him, but at the same time he is a strong writer and handles with ease and fluence nearly any line of thought.

Harper's Examination, Another young man who was admitted to the practice of law yesterday, and who went into the examinations with the wishes for success of a number of friends in Atlanta, especially at the capitol, where he has been for several months was Mr. for several months was Mr. W. M. Har-per, who has been reading law with Attor-ney General Terrell and acting as stenographer in his office. Mr. Harper was put through a severe examination by the gen-tlemen whom the court had appointed as examiners and came out with flying colors. Mr. N. L. Hutchins, Jr., examined him in code and equity; Mr. A. H. Davis, in common law; Hon. E. W. Martin, in pleading and practice, and Mr. W. H. Black, in constitution and rules.

The committee gave Mr. Harper a fine endorsement. He is a young man whose home is at Americus, where for several years he was secretary to the president of the Savannah and Americus railroad. Since November, 1892, he has been in the office of the attorney general, and during his residence in Atlanta he has made many friends who will congratulate him upon his successful entrance to his profession.

ed an idea of reducing this expense and the experiment works like a charm.

There are at all times a number of women in the stockade and the Captain decided to put them to sewing for the other prisoners. At present there are seven women serving sentences imposed by the recorder, One of these is a skillful mantua-maker and seamstress, and she does all the cutting while the duty of making the garments is imposed on the other females.

Close calculations have been made since this reform went into effect and the result shows a net saving to the city of 60 cents on each garment. Estimating the aggregate saving on the yearly quota of convicts it will be seen that this will reduce expenses no little.

An Exthusiastic Gathering Last Night in the Equitable.

The Mississippi Society of Atlanta held an enthusiastic meeting last night in the office of the president, Major L. M. Tucker, office of the president, Major L. M. Tucker, in the Equitable.
Several new members were elected and arrangements were made looking out for the engagement of permanent rooms. These rooms will probably be in the new Cooledge building on Forsyth street, and will be fitted out in elegant style.

This society at present numbers about forty members and among them are some of the most prominent and influential discuss of Atlanta.

CITY NOTES.

GONE TO DENVER.—Mr. Charles Danief leaves this morning for Denver, Colo., where he goes to represent the Atlanta division of the Order of Railroau Telegraphers at the ninth annual convention of that order, commencing May 21st. The Order of Railway Telegraphers is growing very rapidly throughout the country, and already ranks among the other great railroad labor organizations, although many years the junior of the others. Questions of much importance to the order are to be acted upon at the coming convention, and great interest is being taken in it by members in the south. When the convention adjourns Mr. Daniel will extend his trip to Salt Lake City, the home of the Mormons, the great Yellowstone national park and other points of interest in the far west.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.—This afternoon at 2 o'clock the annual commencement exercises of Clarke university will open. The feature of the programme will be the quarter centennial jubilee, and a large crowd will be on hand. The exercises tomorrow will also be especially interesting. This institution has just finished one of the most successful years in its history, and every department has been strengthened.

ALL CIRCUMSTANTIAL.—The evidence against Will Turner, charged with murder, was insufficient to convict him. It was, in fact, entirely circumstantial, and the jury found a verdict of not guilty yesterday aftercome.

TO WELCOME THE NEW PASTOR.—
The Central Congregational church will tender a reception to kev. R. V. Atkinson, the pastor, on Friday evening. The members will receive their friends from $ to 11 p. m. at the church, Ellis and Church streets, and invite all to make the acquaintance of their pastor and to join with them in this occasion of welcome and social entertainment.

State Convention.

HUNDREDS OF DELEGATES AT ROLL CALL

Tom Watson Declines the Gubernatorial Nomination of His Party- A Split Threatened in the Ranks.

This morning at 10 o'clock the state peo-ple's party convention will be called to or-der in the state capitol. If signs count for aught it will be a very large convention, hundreds of delegates from all quarters of the state having come to the city on yesterday's trains with more to follow on the trains that come early this The railroads gave a cheap rate to the convention, the fare being the same that is offered to all conventions—full fare coming and one-third returning. This had much to do with causing delegates to come in such great numbers. Every county in the state, it is claimed, will be represented by a large delegation when the roll is called this morning.

The purpose of the convention is to put out a state ticket, to frame a state platform and to take further steps towards a more perfect organization of the party in this The greatest interest in the convention arises out of the gubernatorial question. It has been thought pretty generally over the state that Judge J. K. Hines, of Atlanta, would be the choice of the delegates at this convention, and it is quite probable that he will be nominated today.

It was plain yesterday, however, that a great effort will be made to get ex-Congressman Thomas E. Watson to run. A very great pressure is being brought to bear upon Mr. Watson to accept the nomination and if he would give the slightest expres-sion of willingness he would be nominated this morning without a dissenting voice, according to the opinions of all the promi-nent leaders of the party at the hotels yesterday and last night.

But Mr. Wetson is very positive in his declaration that he would not accept the nomination. "Under no consideration," said he to a Constitution reporter last night, "will 1 accept the proposition to put my name at the head of the state ticket. I will not be a candidate for the governorship. Nothing is more certain than this." "Do you realize that a very firm endeavor is being made among the delegates to force the nomination upon you?" was asked of Mr. Watson.

"Yes, and I fully appreciate the compliment of the movement, but I have told my friends that I will not take the nomination, and I was never more in earnest in my life

"Is it your intention to run for congress again in the tenth district?" "I cannot say that it is my intention to run for anything. I will run for congress in the tenth if I run for office at all. That is a question, however, that does not come up at this convention and there can be nothing definite said about it just at present. The district conventions which are to be held later in the summer will nominate the candidates for congress and until then I can make no prediction—cannot even make any definite statement with regard to my own plans."

As to the Platform. "What will be the nature of the platform to be adopted by the convention tomor-row?" was asked.

"I cannot say. It is my opinion and faith, owever, that the state convention of the people's party will endorse the Omaha national platform in toto, and then pass on to some questions of state interest—questions which come nearer home."

Will the railroad plank of the Omaha platform, which provides for the government ownership of all the roads, be adopted and incorporated in the state platform?"

"Oh yes. It will not be left out." "What will be the local features of the platform?"

"I am inclined to think that something will be said concerning the convict lease system, urging a change in the hire of the state's convicts. I think some plan will be outlined providing for the use of the convicts in working the public roads, dividing them out by congressional districts."

Mr. Watson went further to say that he believed the convention will have a plank in the platform providing for the purchase by the state of all the books to be used in the primary grades of the public schools, thus doing away with the change of textooks, putting the parents of the school children to great cost.

He said he would favor a plank calling for an income tax in the state, the proceeds of which shall go to the public school fund. These will more than probably be the chief features of the platform that the convention will adopt.

Some Names Mentioned. After the nomination is declined by Mr. Watson this morning, it is safe to predict that several names for the governorship will be rushed before the convention, causing a lively vote.

The name of Colonel W. L. Peek will probably be entered. That of Judge Hines is sure to be en-tered, and it is thought that Colonel C. H. Ellington will be supported by some. There are several factions at work. It is thought that the gubernatorial question is going to bring sensational developments in the convention this morning.

Two wings of the party have already developed. These wings may be called the Watson wing and the Peek wing. The friends of Mr. Watson want to make him chairman of the central committee of the state. This will take from Mr. Irwin, who is a son-in-law of Colonel Peek, and editor of Mr. Watson's rival paper, the only pull he has for the patronage of the party, he having gained much benefit heretofore from the chairmanship of this committee. It is said that Mr. Watson will strongly favor the nomination of Judge Hines.

The other wing will whoop up Colonel Peek's interests, thus precipitating a ngit over the nomination.

Some such schemes were clearly indicated by movements and the talk of the delegates who crowded around the hotel corridors yesterday and last night.

The State Alliance. The friends of Mr. Watson want to make

Amid all this excitement growing out of the people's party convention, it is interesting to ask, what has become of the State Alliance, which was the father of the third party in this state, as it would seem?

Colonel Ellir gton, president of the alliance, gathered about him yesterday a few of the members of the executive committee and took steps for the arrangement of the next regular annual convention of the ailiance. The State Alliance.

The meeting will be in Dublin and will be held the 2d of August.

The alliance is in a very dilapidated condition, and one of the third party delegates yesterday aptly remarked, "It is a dead issue in Georgia now."

Judge Remsen Talks.

Judge T. H. Remsen, one of the most prominent of the delegates to the people's party convention, came up from Lincointon yesterday and was talking about the work that is to be done by the convention.

"There is certainly going to be a great effort made to get Tom Watson to accept the nomination for the gubernatorial race," said he. "I am sure Watson could make a stronger race than any other leader of the party. Everybody wants him to run, but there seems to be no hope of getting him to do it. After him I think Judge Hines is the favorite and that he would be nominated by an overwhelming vote."

Notes of the Convention.

It is more than probable that Judge Cla-Judge Remsen Talks.

It is more than probable that Judge Claborne Snead, of Augusta, will be made permanent chairman of the convention.

Mr. Watson, it is said, will nominate Judge Hines as the candidate of the party for the governorship in the convention this morning.

The Markham house is headquarters for the delegates while they are here. More than 150 delegates are quartered there, and Manager George Stoville is giving them a royal good time.

WOMEN AT WORK.

MONEY DONATIONS OF THE DIRECTORS

For Fitting Up the Woman's Building at the Exposition-The Ladies Contrib-ute Liberally-The Colonial Ball.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the board of directors of the woman's depart-ment of the exposition was held at Mrs. Joseph Thompson's apartments at the Kimball yesterday at noon. Mrs. Thompson presided with her accustomed grace. She suggested before the committee work was outlined that any of the ladies present who had any ideas to give concerning original features for the woman's department should voice them at this informal meeting. A number of features were suggested, among them plans for the art department, colonial room and a room to be fitted up as a woman's ante-bellum work room, where the mistress of the manor sat among her slaves and directed their weaving and spinning. and directed their weaving and spinning. It was also suggested that Miss Winnie Davis might be asked to take this antebellum woman's work department, the idea having arisen, indeed, from Miss Davis's series of clever articles on the housewife of olden days.

There was, however, a more practical suggestion than any of these, which emanated from the sweetest and most modest of women—that as the men would build the woman's building, and as there had been woman's building, and as there had been contributed only $600 for the purpose of fitting it up, each director, if possible, should make a personal donation, and also do everything in her power to secure dona-tions from others. This suggestion was, by vote, adopted as the sense of the meeting.

In the course of fifteen minutes $960 was

This is just a beginning of what the women of Atlanta intend to do for their exposition. It is to be hoped that not only the members of the board, but also the ladies who make up the committees, will each and every one find it possible to give something toward our great woman's building. Indeed, any funds for this purpose that any generously inclined person chooses to offer will be graffully received. Such conoffer will be gratefully received. Such contributions can be sent to Mrs. Joseph Thompson, at the Kimball. It seems to me that everybody in this city who can assist this great cause will be ready and willing

Of the different committees and their work I will speak more fully after the next meeting, which is called for Thursday norning at 11 o'clock. It will be held at Mrs. Thompson's apartments. A prompt and full attendance is earnestly requested, as the meeting is of great importance, it being the last one Mrs. Thompson will hold ere going abroad.

The Colonial Ball. The colonial ball is the theme of every tongue at present and the list of notables who will attend increases daily. A large party will arrive from Athens tomorrow.

Mrs. W. W. Gordon and Miss Gordon arrived from Savannah and will attend the ball. Among the Macon people who will attend the ball will be Mr. Hugh Vernon Washington, one of Macon's leading law yers and a gentleman who has every right to be considered one of the truest aristo-crats in America. Mrs. Mary A. Washing-ton, regent at Macon and first charter mem-ber from Georgia, will be represented by her son, Mr. Hugh Washington, who will appear as his grandfather, Colonel Samuel Hammond, of Virginia, who entered the revolution as lieutenant and rose by distinguished services in many battles to colonel of cavalry. He was first governor of Missouri and his entertaining at his St. Louis home was in such royal style as to have passed into the traditions of that city. A number of others are coming from other cities of Georgia and from outside the state. There is every reason to expect this to be the grandest affair of its kind Georgia has ever known.

Among the descendants of colonial and revolutionary sires in Atlanta are Colonel and Mrs. I. W. Avery. Colonel Avery has four lines, the Averys, Kings, Maynards and Winthrops, and if he can be present at the ball from exposition work, will represent his ancestor, old John Winthrop, the famous first colonial governor of Massachusetts, whose stature is in the stature chamber in Washington in knee pants and collar muffles. Mrs. Avery is a Cleveland, from old Ben Cleveland, the hero of King's

A musical and literary entertainment will be given at Washington seminary on Thurs-day evening which will doubtless prove a very delightful arair to all those so for-tunate as to be present. It will be a French evening. The programme will open with a play in which the roles will be taken by Miss Lucile Daniel, Miss Clylde Smith, Miss Emma Scott and Miss Mary Connally. Musical numbers will be rendered by Miss Anna DeF. Courtney and Miss Julia S. Car-ter. Another play will be participated in by Misses Connally, Smith, Daniels, Scott, Harrison, Wilson, Saul and Baldwin. A call has been issued by Mrs. Milledge, as president of the Ladles' Memorial Association, and Mrs. Samuel W. Goode as secretary for a meeting of that association to be held in the pariors of the Gate City Guard Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

Miss Pamela Cunningham's nieces from Rosemonte hall have been invited to visit their cousins, the Misses Cunningham, 15 Baltimore place.

One of the most delightful entertainments of the year will be that of the Young Ladies' Co-operative Society, of West End, at the home of Miss Lurline Warner, on Holderness street. Their programme will be one of merit, both literary and musical. The object of the entertainment is charity and object of the entertainment is charity, and a small admission fee will be charged. Re-freshments will be served.

A compliment of the very highest order has been bestowed upon one of Atlanta's brainlest women, Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie. She has received from The London Psychical Research Fellowship an order for an article on a scientific line. The exact nature of this article Mrs. Wylie has as yet refused to state but it will be one of upwers in to state, but it will be one of unusual in-London, May 14.—The question in London society just now is this: Did Mr. Asquith get one of the mustard plasters?

It seems that his bride-elect, Miss Margot It seems that his bride-elect, Miss margo-Tennant, was staying in a country house where there was a hunting party. The guests were to return a very few minutes before the dinner began, and they all had their dress suits and shirts laid out, ready to put on. Some sprightly genius sewed mustard plaster leaves inside the shirts. In the hurry no one noticed the plasters, which were deftly concealed, but at the din-which were deftly concealed, but at the dinner it was observed that the men squirmed in their chairs and looked puzzled. Some turned pale; others perspired. One by one they excused themselves and presently none but women remained.

Comparison or notes revealed to the men the fact that there had been a dire plot. But English society is so prim that people musn't talk about shirts in company, and no general investigation could be held. It leaked out, however, that the scheme was the invention of Miss Tennant, but, of course, that may be pure surmise or even a cruel slander.

But, if Miss Tennant conceived it, was it the sense of humor developed on that occasion that first attracted Mr. Asquith to her! Would he have been so fascinated if he had had one of the plasters? Did he get one! I understand that when the jolyer reached him there weren't any mustard leaves left.

THE COTTON MARKET VERY STEADY

With a Decline of Five Points, Owing to the Weakness in the Liverpool Market.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The most significant feature of the day's operations at the stock exchange was the impression the bears were enabled to make on prices because of moderate liquidations. Heretofore those operating for lower prices were unable to dislodge holdings, but today there were dribblings of long stock in Missouri Pacific, Atchison and Sugar, while the declining tendency of prices was disappointing to marginal holders. The increased activity late in the day was welcomed by brokers and speculators alike, as the dullbrokers and speculators allke, as the duliness for the past few days has been oppressive. Business to some extent was interfered with by the installation of the stock exchange officers elected yesterday, and by the absence of a number of operators who left the street at an early hour to attend the Brooklyn handicap. Missouri Pacific was the feature of the trading and on transactions of 11,500 shares fell from 29% to 25%, closing at the lowest figure. The radical reduction in rates by the company in line with the policy of the Atchison and the announcement of the service description. the announcement of the early departure of President Gould for Europe were taken advantage of to break the price. Bear advantage of to break the price. Bear brokers were conspicuous sellers. Atchison was also heavy, falling to 10% on rumors of a $15 to $20 assessment on the stock. Union Pacific was also pressed for sale and declined to 16%. The Grangers, trunk lines and Coalers lost ¼ to 1½ per cent. But the trading outside of St. Paul was light. Burlirgton and Quincy fell 1 to 78%. It is expected that the directors at their meeting. pected that the directors at their meeting to be held in Boston tomorrow will take definite action on the dividends. Chicago Gas was strong and western op-erators who took their profits at yesterday's advance were inclined to buy back their stock. The offerings were small, however, and brokers who usually represent inside parties hesitated to bid up prices.

Western Union was steady, but the Grangers were absolutely neglected, although room traders were disposed to attack St. Paul on the heavy cut in rates ordered to dissouri river points.

Atwood Violett & Co's. Cotton Letter. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager. NEW YORK, May 15.—Liverpool took the initiative today and dropped 4-64d, showing that there has been a great deal of long interest unliquidated and as crop accounts are becoming generally favorable they evidently anticipate lower prices and are acting accordingly. Trade conditions in this country are certainly not improving, to say the least. At the same time this market has been very steady considering the weakness on the other side. There seems to be little or nothing said about the situation that cannot be told in few words. There is Atwood Violett & Co's. Cotton Letter. that cannot be told in few words. There is absence of speculation, and what there is seems to tend rather to selling than to the buying side. That the decline here was not so great as would neutrally have been not so great as would naturally have been expected after the course of Liverpool to-day is due doubtless to the diminishing supplies in the country. It may be that the situation at Washington will change at any moment and tariff legislation put in a way to be hastened more rapidly than has so far been the case. This would strengthen so far been the case. This would strengthen all markets no doubt, but, judging from the past, there seems little to be hoped for in that quarter. Statistics are getting strong, but speculatively it does not seem to bring about the necessary buying. Port nets today, 4.312. Liverpool should be a little better tomorrow in consequence of comparative steadiness here today.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter. NEW YORK, May 15.—Summary of Hubbard, Price & Co.'s cotton letter: In response to the weak matters that have dominated in America since Friday the Liver-pool market declined today 4-82d to 5-64d with sales of 8,000 bales to spinners. This with sales of 8,000 bales to spinners. This is rather more of a decline than was expected and this market has consequently declined some 4 to 5 points from yesterday, making the total decline from Saturday 14 points. Rumors of a sale of cotton for export have been current during the day, but have not yet been confirmed, and the market represents the inactive condition current in trade circles, for the entire community is writing grown added. advice from Wash ington as to what action will be taken upon the tariff bill. Crop accounts continue upon the tariff bill. Crop accounts continue favorable and the feeling throughout the cotton belt is bearish on the fine prospects of the growing crop as it now shows above ground. Spinners remain out of the market ground. Spinners remain out of the market and their representatives here were among the most prominent sellers at about the lowest point of the day. It can be said that our market, though very dull, is comparatively steady, but the temper of all the southern markets is against any improvement in values and the most bearish views are expressed from those who are closest to the planter. The market closes quiet and steady at opening prices.

Riordan & Co's, Cotton Circular,

Riordan & Co's. Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, May 15—(Special.)—The market today was about as dull as yesterday's. Liverpooi reopened with a bigger decline than the bulls had bargained for, and our opening showed a loss of about 5 points, the first sales of August being at 7.07. Just after the call the market was weaker, and there were transactions in August at 7.08; but there were many discreet bears anxious to cover, and the depression did not last long. August reacted to 7.10 under the demand for the rest of the day and fluctuated lazily between 7.08 and 7.09. The close was dull with 7.08 bid for August. The market remained exceedingly sensitive, and the bears are feeling their way with exceeding caution, because they realize that while prices may and very likely will gradually settle down lower, the slightest encouragement would whirl prices upward so that the market might recover in a single day what it has taken weeks to lose. Meantime, all eyes are turned to Liverpool, which will probably give the cue to our market morrow. Riordan & Co's. Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Cotton declined 4@5 points, and closed easy. Spot sales, 8,000 bales at weak quotations. In Manchester yarns were in buyers' favor; cloths dull. The Bombay weekly receipt were 22,000, against 24,000 for the same time last year. New Orleans declined 6 points. Por receipts, 4,312, against 4,368 this day last week and 7,685 last year. Thus far this week, 11,273, against 12,833 thus far last week. No exports today. Spot cotton 1-16c. lower; sales, 559 for spinning. The southern spot markets were generally quiet at old quotations. New Orleans receipts tomorrow are estimated at 300 to 500, against 737 on the same day last week, and 180 last year. Fine weather and depression in Liverpool and the south caused weakness here. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 15.—Wheat declined 14c. from yesterday's close today and at the end of the session was 191% below Monday's final figures, of course breaking the record for low price again. The prospect, as viewed by the trade, grows less encouraging for the holder day by day. Many who have been hardened buins have changed front and others have withdrawn from the market, pocketing their losses at the same time. Seiling out of long wheat propelled prices on their descent today, lower cables being the main feature of the discouraging news. Liverpool came forward at the opening with a decline of 1d., and New 1 ork reported heavy seiling orders from abroad. When the continental markets reported declines, except Antwerp, the weakness became more intense. The selling was general. W. R. Linn probably being the most prominent local professional parting with wheat. The large commission nouses, with one or two exceptions, were also free seilers. Schwartz, Jupee & Co. and Cutler & Co. were notably so. The buying was principally by shorts, who covered whatever open contracts they wished without trouble. Pardridge took a great deal, it was said that Armour & Co. were buyers and the fact that a large quantity was taken by Lester & Co, lent color to the report. The market was not without its buill news, but no more attention was paid to it than if it had not been received. July wheat sold between 57% and 57%, closing at 56%. Cash wheat was in good demand, but lower with the futures.

Corn meekly obeyed the influence exerted by its companion, wheat, and declined There was no important or noteworthy trading, the selling orders coming from all sources and being, in the main, for the purpose of liquidation. Values did not break quickly, just gradually melted away, and at the close showed a net loss of %0% from yesterday's final quotations. July sold between 38% and 37%, and closed at 37%. There was a fair demand for cash corn and prices were &0c. lower.

Oats—June oats were sold very liberally by a large commissi CHICAGO, May 15.—Wheat declined 1%c.

CHICAGO, May 15 .- About the only feature in the wheat trade today has been heavy liquidation. Most of the commission house had orders of this character which, coupled had orders of this character which, coupled with heavy selling on the part of some local traders, depressed values almost 14c per bushel from last night's close, which, considering the extremely low price, is a large break. During the entire session there was an almost total absence of buying and the only support the market received on the decline was covering by shorts, Pardridge being the heaviest buyer. At the opening there was nothing whatever to encourage holders. Cables were sick. Foreigners were selling in New York and all outside markets were weak. Bradstreet's statement showed a decrease in the world's visible supply of 4.664.000 bushels with a total decrease each a decrease in the world's visible supply of 4,664,000 bushels with a total decrease east and west of the Rockies of 2,626,000 and a decrease afloat of 1,735,000. THE COTTON MARKET VERY STEADY

With a Decline of Five Points, Owing to the Weakness in the Liver-pool Market.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The most significant feature of the day's operations at the stock exchange was the impression the bears were enabled to make on prices beof moderate liquidations. Heretofore cause of moderate liquidations. Heretore those operating for lower prices were unable to dislodge holdings, but today there were dribblings of long stock in Missouri Pacific, Atchison and Sugar, while the declining tendency of prices was disappointing to marginal holders. The increased activity late in the day was welcomed by prokers and speculators alike, as the dulibrokers and speculators alike, as the dullness for the past few days has been oppressive. Business to some extent was interfered with by the installation of the stock exchange officers elected yesterday, and by the absence of a number of opera-tors who left the street at an early hour to attend the Brooklyn handicap. Missouri Pacific was the feature of the trading and on transactions of 11,500 shares fell from 29% to 26%, closing at the lowest figure. The radical reduction in rates by the company in line with the policy of the Atchison and the announcement of the early departure of President Gould for Europe were taken advantage of to break the price. Bear brokers were conspicuous sellers. Atchison was also heavy, falling to 10% on rumors of a $15 to $20 assessment on the stock. Union Pacific was also pressed for sale and declined to 16%. The Grangers, trunk lines and Coalers lost ¼ to 1¼ per cent. But the trading outside of St. Paul was light. Burlirgton and Quincy fell 1 to 78%. It is expected that the directors at their meeting to be held in Boston tomorrow will take definite action on the dividends. Sugar finally sold at 163% against 165 early in the Stocks were pressed throughout and little support was given them. Feeling in the Sugar stock is bearish because of the general impression that the schedule adoptd by the senate finance committee will be contested in the house. A belief that a clique is loaded up with the certificates also operates against it. Lead was firmer than the other Industrials on reports that the directors will declare a dividend of 1 per cent on the stock this week. Cordage, Cotton Oil, Tobacco, Whisky and Chicago Gas were quiet. The general market closed weak 1/2 to 21/2 per cent lower than yes-Railway and miscellaneous bonds were was some pressure to sell Sugar as reports from Washington that the republicans will oppose the passage of the sugar schedules. The Havemeyer brokers bought at the de-cline from last night's close.

Chicago Gas was strong and western op-erators who took their profits at yesterday's advance were inclined to buy back their stock. The offerings were small, however, and brokers who usually represent inside parties hesitated to bid up prices.

Western Union was steady, but the Grangers were absolutely neglected, although room traders were disposed to attack St. Paul on the heavy cut in rates ordered to Missouri river points.

176 21 Atwood Violett & Co's. Cotton Letter. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager. NEW YORK, May 15.—Liverpool took the initiative today and dropped 4-64d, showing that there has been a great deal of long interest unliquidated and as crop accounts are becoming generally favorable they ev-idently anticipate lower prices and are acting accordingly. Trade conditions in this country are certainly not improving, to say the least. At the same time this market has been very steady considering the weakness on the other side. There seems to be little or nothing said about the situation that cannot be told in few words. There is absence of speculation, and what there is seems to tend rather to selling than to the buying side. That the decline here was not so great as would naturally have been expected after the course of Liverpool to-day is due doubtless to the diminishing supplies in the country. It may be that the situation at Washington will change at any moment and tariff legislation put in a way to be hastened more rapidly than has so far been the case. This would strengthen all markets no doubt, but, judging from the past, there seems little to be hoped for in that quarter. Statistics are getting strong, but speculatively it does not seem to bring about the necessary buying. Port nets today, 4,312. Liverpool should be a little better tomorrow in consequence of comparative steadiness here today. The monoming is see raigs of comparative in Now York today:

cotto in New Orlows (199 July 180 August 180 Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter. NEW YORK, May 15.—Summary of Hubbard, Price & Co.'s cotton letter: In response to the weak matters that have dominated in America since Friday the Liverpool market declined today 4-62d to 5-64d with sales of 8,000 bales to spinners. This is rather more of a decline than was expected and this market has consequently declined some 4 to 5 points from yesterday, making the total decline from Saturday 14 points. Rumors of a sale of cotton for expert have been current during the day, but have not yet been confirmed, and the market represents the inactive condition urrent in trade circles, for the munity is waiting some advice from Washington as to what action will be taken upon the tariff bill. Crop accounts continue favorable and the feeling throughout the cotton belt is bearish on the fine prospects of the growing crop as it now shows above ground. Spinners remain out of the market and their representatives here were among and their representatives here were almost the most prominent sellers at about the lowest point of the day. It can be said that our market, though very dull, is com-paratively steady, but the temper of all the southern markets is against any improvement in values and the most bearish views are expressed from those who are closest to the planter. The market closes quiet and steady at opening prices.

Riordan & Co's. Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, May 15.—(Special.)—The market today was about as dull as yesterday's, liverpool reopened with a bigger decline than the bulls had bargained for, and our opening showed a loss of about 5 points, the first sales of August being at 7.07. Just after the call the market was weaker, and there were transactions in August at 7.08; but there were transactions in August at 7.08; and the depression did not last long. August reacted to 7.10 under the demand for the rest of the day and fluctuated lazily between 7.08 and 7.09. The close was dull with 7.08 bid for August. The market remained exceedingly sensitive, and the bears are feeling their way with exceeding caution, because they realize that while prices may and very likely will gradually settle down lower, the slightest encouragement would whirl prices upward so that the market might recover in a single day what it has taken weeks to lose. Meantime, all eyes are turned to Liverpool, which will probably give the cue to our market tomorrow.

The Sun's Cotton Review. Riordan & Co's. Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Cotton declined 4@5 points, and closed easy. Spot sales, 8,009 bales at weak quotations. In Manchester yarns were in buyers' favor; cloths dull. The Bombay weekly receipts were 22,000, against 24,000 for the same time last year. New Orleans declined 6 points. Port receipts, 4,312, against 4,368 this day last week and 7,635 last year. Thus far this week, 11,23, against 12,833 thus far last week. No exports today. Spot cotton 1-16c. lower; sales, 559 for spinning. The southern spot markets were generally quiet at old quotations. New Orleans receipts tomorrow are estimated at 300 to 500, against 737 on the same day last week, and 180 last year. Fine weather and depression in Liverpool and the south caused weakness here. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 15.—Wheat declined 14c. from yesterday's close today and at the end of the session was 141% below Monday's final figures, of course breaking the record for low price again. The prospect, as viewed by the trade, grows less encouraging for the holder day by day. Many who have been hardened buils have cranged front and others have withdrawn from the market, pocketing their losses at the same time. Seiling out of long wheat propelled prices on their descent today, lower cables being the main feature of the discouraging news. Liverpool came forward at the opening with a deciline of 1d., and New 1ork reported heavy seiling orders from abroad. When the continental markets reported declines, except Antwerp, the weakness became more intense. The selling was general. W. R. Linn probably being the most prominent local professional parting with one or two exceptions, were also free sellers. Schwartz, Dupee & Co. and Cutler & Co. were notably so. The buying was principally by shorts, who covered whatever open contracts they wished without trouble. Pardridge took a great deal. It was said that Armour & Co. were buyers and the fact that a large quantity was taken by Lester & Co. lent color to the report. The market was not without its bull news, but no more attention was paid to it than if it had not been received. July wheat sold between 57% and 57%, closing at 56%. Cash wheat was in good demand, but lower with the futures.

Corn meekly obeyed the influence exerted by its companion, wheat, and declined There was no important or noteworthy trading, the selling orders coming from all sources and being, in the main, for the purpose of liquidation. Values did not break quickly, just gradually melted away, and at the close showed a net loss of 540% from yesterday's final quotations. July sold between 38% and 37%, and closed at 37%, 2075. The mability of wheat and corn to hold up was a very important factor in oats, although the large receipts, 230 cars, availed much in assisting the decline. The

By Private Wire to J. C. Knox. Manager. CHICAGO, May 15.—About the only feature in the wheat trade today has been heavy liquidation. Most of the commission houses had orders of this character which, coupled with heavy selling on the part of some local traders, depressed values almost 14c per level for highly close which complete with the part of some local traders. bushel from last night's close, which, considering the extremely low price, is a large break. During the entire session there was an almost total absence of buying and the an almost total absence of buying and the only support the market received on the decline was covering by shorts, Pardridge being the heaviest buyer. At the opening there was nothing whatever to encourage holders. Cables were sick. Foreigners were selling in New York and all outside markets were weak. Bradstreet's statement showed a decrease in the world's visible supply of 4,664,000 bushels with a total decrease east and west of the Rockies of 2,626,000 and a decrease afloat of 1,735,000. Under ordinary circumstances this undoubtedly would have very strong feeling, but there was too much long stuff pressing on the market and the statement had but little effect. The close was weak. Corn has also been weak, but mostly in sympathy with wheat. Provisions joined in the general de-cline.

Go see the Yamacraws today. Watch Sullivan's kids do McCloskey's missits this afternoon.

Nearly one thousand people saw the game between Atlanta and Charleston yesterday afternoon.

And as the Atlantas trotted on to victory the great throng of spectators howled themselves hoarse for the local men.

The game was somewhat ragged on both sides, but if the Atlantas would play the same kind of ball all the time they put up yesterday it would result in a better standing in the race for the pennant. ing in the race for the pennant.

Chard was in the box for the home team and his work was of an excellent character. Only four of the Charleston sluggers were able to touch him, and two of the hits they secured were of the scratch variety. Chard is showing himself able to handle the men who face him and if he continues to improve as he has since the season opened he will soon be one of the most reliable pitchers in the association. Beard and Wentz alone were able to get clean hits off Chard. The boy's support, however, was not as good as it might have been.
The game was Atlanta's from the start to the finish and at no time was there any chance for Charleston to take it. Smith in left field did some ugly, clumsy work, which more than once jeopardized the game, but somehow the other members of the game came to the scratch when they were needed.

The score was:

Mobile Is Now Second. The result of the games yesterday makes quite a change in the standing of the Macon took two games from Savannah, the team that has been in second place so long. That, coupled with the victory of Mobile at Nashville, pushes the Yamacraws down to third place and shifts the Mobile team into second. That same Mo-bile team is now playing one of the best games seen in the south for several seasons. Atlanta is now in fifth place, but will be higher up when the three games with Savannah are over.

The Game Today. The Savannah team will open with Man-ager Sullivan's team this afternoon at the

The Savannahs played two games with Macon yesterday and lost both of them. Since the team left home, where it has been playing since the season opened, it has gone to pieces badly and the indicahas gone to pieces bady and the indica-tions are that they will be pushing the last club in the race for that position be-fore they get home again. McCloskey has a good lot of players around him, but they are of that kind that one defeat takes all the heart out of them and this afternoon they will go down before Sullivan's aggre-ration without any great amount of trouble gation without any great amount of trouble being given to the home boys. Mobile Beats Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., May 15.—(Special.)—One of the most interesting games of the season was played with Mobile this afternoon. The game started Mobile's way and that team piled up ten runs in the first three innings, while Nashville was making three. In the fourth Nashville secured seven runs, making it even. Then it was a fight to the finish. The game, however, went to Mobile after Nashville had it clearly won. Score: Nashville. 1 0 2 7 0 2 0 0 1—13. H.20 E.4 Mobile. 5 4 1 1 0 0 0 0 3—14. Behne was on third and Hill in left in the first game, and both payed great ball, everybody being satosth payed great ball, everybody being sat-isfied with the new players. In the second same Morelock played third. The hard and frequent hitting of the home team was the only feature of the games. Score:

THE YEARLY MEETING. Stockholders Listen to the Annual Reports.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Atlanta Consolidated Street Car Company was held yesterday in the main of-fices in the Equitable building. Nearly every share of the stock was represented. The annual reports of all the officers were presented, read and discussed, and the contents of each paper were endorsed. After the tents of each paper were endorsed. After the consideration of the annual reports of the officers the stockholders elected a board of directors for the current year. The gentlemen elected to the board were: Messrs. S. M. Inman, H. A. Thman, H. E. W. Palmer, Captain Harry Jaokson, W. C. Sanders, R. J. Lowry, Joel Hurt, J. H. Watson, J. T. Dargan, Ernest Woodruff, J. Cavroll appear.

Immediately after the election of the Immediately after the election of the board of directors the gentlemen composing the board met and organized by electing the following officers:

Joel Hurt president, E. Woodruff vice president and general manager, R. J. Lowry treasurer, T. K. Glenn secretary and assistant treasurer, H. N. Hurt superintendent.

ry treasurer, T. K. Glenn secretary and assistant treasurer, H. N. Hurt superintendent.

In his annual address to the stockholders President Hurt, among other things, said "It will be seen from the list of cities showing a population above 50,000 at the last census and the street railway mileage in each city, that Atlanta has a greater mileage of street railroads in proportion to the population than any other city in the United States.

"We deem it important to call your attention to the large item paid for damages during the past twelve months. This amount is over three times as much as is estimated by insurance companies to be a fair allowance for damages based upon the company's receipts, and must be regarded as an evidence of the abnormal prejudice against corporations in this state, city and county. Damage suits are being drummed up by lawyers who make a practice of stirring up litigation, and in some cases it has appeared that parties bringing claims against the company had deliberately planned a trival accident in order to extort money. This damage suit practice has grown in the county of Fulton within the past five years, until today it is the source of more than half of the litigation, resulting in great expense to the county and stagnation to all industrial pursuits. It is to be hoped that a change of sentiment, which now appears to be growing, will ultimately bring about a correction of this great evil, and when this is done, the profits of this company should be correspondingly increased.

"At the time of the last annual meeting that the time of the last annual meeting the content of the last annual meeting that the time of the last annual meeting that the time of the last annual meeting the company should be correspondingly increased.

and when this is done, the profits of this company should be correspondingly increased.

"At the time of the last annual meeting about four-fifths of the stock of your company was owned in northern cities. During the past year we have succeeded in interesting Georgia citizens in the purchase of the stock of your company from time to time until now we find four-fifths of it being owned in Atlanta, and it is to be hoped that an institution so important to this community as the street railway interest, will receive hereafter a fair share of consideration in the courts and halls of legislation.

"During the year your officers have succeeded in securing the co-operation on the board of directors of a number of the leading citizens fo Atlanta, and these, together with your officers, have labored most earnestly for six months past to save your company from wreck and ruin. They have accomplished, as you have been advised, a reorganization by which the interest on $1,784,600 bonds has been scaled.

"I desire to express gratitude to the company's directors, officers and embloyes for the prompt and clever co-operation which has been accorded during the trying period since last July. Notwithstanding the cut of 20 per cent in the pay of the employes, which was found necessary, no murmur of complaint had been heard from any quarter and we believe it should be the policy of the company to recognize this spirit of cooperation by an increase of pay to those employes as soon as the receipts of the road will so justify."

THE AWAKENING.

Ask me not of love; I do not know

How lilles blow,
Or first the tufted larch begins its green;
How secretly the apple bloom grows
white,
Or how the Illacs spin their purple sheen
Upon the russet boughs in the short night.
Upon the russet boughs in the short night.

Will open for the summer May 10th. This hotel has only 35 rooms, but is nicely furnished and in perfect repair.

I know not how the locust, blossoming
In early spring,
Expands the withered roughness of its cell,
Till all the air is perfumed with its breath,
Or how the furry willow-catkins swell
To sudden freshness from a stem of death.

Day breaks, and lo! the daffodils unfold Their hearts of gold;
The jasmine bursts its buds within the hour;
The barren meadow, wooed by one warm sun, Arrays itself in myriad leaf and flower— I know not how these miracles are done. Nor know I by what sweet and subtle art Love warms the heart;

A clearer sapphire crowns the mellow noon,
A mystic glamour gilds the commonplace;
A brighter crescent rims the golden moon,
And all things image one beloved face.

Comparatively few people outside the highest medical circles know of this wonderful discovery, but it is known to possess the qualities of flesh-forming, strength-imparting, life-giving power which has never been known before in the history of the world.

Tests which have been made showing a weak, pale, run-down condition, accompanied with indigestion and general loss of energy, have shown most remarkable results, and it is not improbable that the discovery of Paskola will be accepted as the flesh-forming food of the nineteenth century by the highest authorities in both Europe and America. Certainly it is superseding cod liver oils, beef tea and the fatty preparations which have been used so extensively in the past, and the results so far achieved amply warrant the wisdom of those who have taken such action.

A pamphlet giving full particulars respecting Paskola will be sent on application to the Pre-Digested Food Company., 30 Reade St., N. Y. City.

The March of Advanced Science

London, Eng., April 30.—The following statement made by the late Dr. J. Milner Fothergill, the eminent scientist, who was physician for the London hospital for diseases of the chest, has made quite a sen-sation. After denouncing oils and similar substances when used as food, he said: "Fatty, oily foods cannot be taken by those whose stomachs are weak or whose diges-tive organs are out of order. What food should such people have? I say they need food which acts as a strengthener and sustainer, as fuel to feed the lamp of life, and

A New Set of Officers Elected for the Young Men's Library.

MR. DESAUSSURE IS AT THE HEAD

He Is Ably Supported by a Strong Di rectory-The Growth of the Association.

The election of officers to manage the affairs of the Young Men's Library Associa-tion for the ensuing year passed off quiet-ly yesterday afternoon.

A number of votes were polled in spite of the fact that no opposition was made to the ticket nominated.

The election was managed by Messrs.
Gordon F. Mitchell, M. J. Flynn and Randall Weems.

It was held yesterday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock.

New Officers Elected. The following ticket by a unanimous vote was elected:

Was elected:
President, G. R. DeSaussure; vice president, J. R. Nutting; secretary, E. M. Mitchell; treasurer, M. T. LaHatte.
Mr. DeSaussure, the newly elected president, has been connected with the Young dent, has been connected with the Young Men's Library Association for a number of years, and has served the association with an interest which few have equaled and none surpassed. He resigns the office of treasurer, which he has filled with exceptional ability, to become the executive head of the institution. As a young financier, Mr. DeSaussure is already the possessor of an enviable reputation, and the growth and popularity of the association has been and popularity of the association has been greatly furthered by the exercise of his abiding interest and fidelity.

Mr. M. T. LaHatte, who succeeds Mr. DeSaussure, as the treasurer of the association, will make a valuable and worthy officer and his abilities wi'l be, in no measure, disparaged by those of his predecessor. He is well known in Atlanta and is a warm friend of the library.

Mr. Eugene M. Mitchell continues to act as the scribe of the association, and the library is to be congratulated in having such an able and worthy secretary.

In retiring from the office which he has filled during the past year, with so much grace and dignity, Mr. Charles A. Read, carries with him the gratitude and approval of the entire association. Under the by-laws it is not the custom to elect a presi-dent as the immediate successor of him-self, and were it not for this provision, the association would be glad to avail it-self of the abilities of one who has served

His talents are literary as well as legal, and this explains the affinity which has made him, for so many years, such an unswerving friend of the Young Men's Library

If nothing else indicated this, the presence of a greatly increased attendance of ladies during the day, would prove that a change in the location was suggested by a wise

The grass is a beautiful carpet of green, well swept and kept in perfect order, as if ready at any time for inspec-tion. LAND OF PEACH AND PEAR.

Among the Pine Forests and Fruit Orchards of Southern Georgia.

A trip to southern Georgia is a revelation to one whose idea of the state has been formed in the northern hills and mountains or even in the gently rolling lands around

As you leave Macon you take your last view of the hills. They have been slowly sinking as you went farther south from Atlanta, but now they suddenly disappear in the long, sea-like stretch of the plain. You have left oak and hickory forests behind you; you have left veins of iron and beds of marble, and you have got into the region whence go turpentine and stores for the British navy, and of the sawmills, whence go the famous yellow pine lumber to build cities in the northwest, to pave streets in Berlin, or ornament homes of the nobility of

But you are still in the commonwealth of Georgia, whose vast natural wealth is un-appreciated by the world, even by her own

A new part of this little known and little valued section of our state has been, within recent years, opened up by the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad. As I had rever been in that portion of Georgia, I yielded to a long withstood temptation the other day and took a trip over the line, starting at Macon and ending at Palatka, Fla. To one familiar with Georgia, pine forests, there is too much sameness, apparently, in the scenery; but there is, if we look more closely much to charm the eye and delight all the other senses in the pinelands of the state. The pine has interests entirely apart from: its commercial value. Its dark, perennial green, unaffected by frost or sun, is restful to the sight; and its long, straight stems form natural avenues which are little less bicturesque than vistas formed by palms. Overhead the clusters of pine needle-like leaves, through which the breeze always stirs, are so many acolian harps, placed there by nature and upen which she breathes with her winds her marvelous harmonies. And when the winds stir these pines we feel as if they were moved by some healing power like the waters of Bethesda, for the pines are not only beautiful and restful and charming, but they are us to health and life. We shall go among A new part of this little known and little them some day and build sanitariums under their tall tops, and take our sick there just as we now take them to the seashore or to the mountains or to European springs.

Along the line of the railway, people are awakening to the natural wealth of their soil and to the advantages given them by cheaper and faster transportation. This is the cotton, pine and fruit section of Georgia. LeConte and Keifer pears are talked of from Macon to Valdosta. Orchards of them frings the road. Every dwelling is surrounded by them, and not a negro cabin but has its row or cluster of pear trees; and it is now being pretty well understood that they are more valuable than orange groves or cotton plantations. Cotton is,, alas! still king in Georgia, and rules and ruins us; but we are slowly freeing ourselves, and the pear and peach are helping us to secure our independence. Along the entire line of 167 miles, from Macon to Melrose, will one day flourish extensive and profitable orchards.

Almost every town now is built around a sawmill or a turpentine still, or both. The pine forest is scarred, drained of its life, and then cut down and sawed into lumber. Dead timber covers the earth, and in some places it is difficult to believe that man has wrought such destruction. But the fruit farm succeeds to the turpentine farm—the peach and pear to the pine.

Land that has brought its poor owner a pittance of $3 an acre, when its irreentine farm—the peach and pear to the pine.

Land that has brought its poor owner a pittance of $3 an acre, when its irreentine and lumber privileges are soid, can be turned into orchards that will bring several hundred dollars an acre every year.

If you have only heard or read of pear orchards you will feel as if you have suddenly entered a fairy region when you reach Cycloneta.

There was a cyclone here once and some one to commemorate it, has done the place denly entered a fairy region when you reach Cycloneta.

There was a cyclone here once and some one, to commemorate it, has done the place and the region and irreparable damage by giving it a name to frighten away intending settlers. People are apt to think that they have found the very home of the cyclone, and are willing to leave it in undisturbed possession. The persons who are interested in the welfare of this beautiful and favored spot should change this ominous name.

Here, on both sides of the railway, spread the broad acres of "the model farm." Long avenues of pear trees stretch away into distance, their deep brilliant green looking like a billowy ocean of verdure. Vinayarus at on neighboring hills, and peach orchards, and full groves of plums, and fields of small fruit and grain.

The tasteful chalet-like home of the manager of the farm adorns a hill to your right, from the crest of which he can see, I believe, the most beautiful farm in Georgia. It is certainly a "model," and illustrates in the happlest and most effective way what can be done in this section of the saate. Every variety of crops, fruits of all species, and stock of all kind, are here raised successfully. The object lesson will be of tremendous value to Georgia. You can read the whole story and profit by the germ of wisdom and experience it teaches, while looking from a car window at the green fields and the waving grain and the noading tops of thousands of pear trees.

This is certain to be one of the sidest sections of Georgia. Everything is favorable. The climate is mild, having neither severe cold nor severe heat. It is healthy and invigorating, being blessed by the presence of the pines. The soil is responsive and often fertile, but in all cases yielding abundant returns in fruit. The pear and peach offer an unfalling source of profit, far greater than can be made on cotton, and the rail-way now brings all the markets and all the advantages and privileges of civilization within easy reach. A PLEASING SCENE AT TRINITY MISSION

Miss Laura Haygood Pays a Visit to the Mission Which She Helped to Establish Ten Years Ago.

Something more than eleven years ago, the last Sunday and the last day (the 31st) of December, 1882—Miss Laura A. Haygood and F. M. Richardson and a few other devoted Sunday school workers met at the old McPherson barracks, and, under the auspices of Trinity church, established Trinity Home Mission Sunday school. It rapidly grew under the superinten-dence of Mr. Richardson and the real misdence of Mr. Richardson and the real missionary work of Miss Haygood, Miss Mollie Stevens, Mr. Cheshire, Mrs. Turner, now dead, Mrs. N. A. McLendon and Mrs. Payne, now Mrs. L. P. Thomas, to large proportions. From a mission school it has grown to be a church under the tender nursing pastorate of Rev. W. D. Shea, who takes a fatherly Christian interest in who takes a fatherly Christian interest in the religious advancement of the children who attend. To meet the demands of the increase a fine eligibly located lot has been bought, on which there stands a large house dedicated to the Lord and a church organized promising untold benefit to generations to come.

Consecrated, like her great brother, Bishop A. G. Haygood, to the service of the Master, Miss Laura Haygood obediently, yet with pardonable sorrowful regret, responded to the call to engage in missionary work in a distant and greater field, and, in 1884, went to China as a missionary.

Recently, after ten years of devoted service, she was granted a vacation and a few days ago arrived in Atlanta to enjoy few days ago arrived in Atlanta to enjoy it among the many loving friends of her childhood, her young womanhood and her aforetime Christian workers here. Last Sunday afternoon was set apart at the Mission Sunday school for a reception to her, so affectionately remembered. Long before her arrival the house was filled. Among those present were very many who, with her, planted the mission. Some of them, little more than pupils when she left, met her as teachers; met her as heads of families. Soon after Miss Haygood arrived she soon after Miss Haygood arrived she entertained her auditors with a very interesting account of the home life, customs and religious exercises of the Chinese, and of the great work being done in that far-away land. She was listened to throughout with rapt attention, and at the conclusion of her instructive address she was given a heartfelt, impressive ovation. Nearly every one present came forward to press her hand and to receive a smile of affection and a word of encouragement.

SHE IS BUSY DODGING THE REPORTERS

Racing Men and Gamblers Endangering the Existence of Turf Sport-The Great Breeding Industry Is Threatened.

New York, May 15 .- (Special Correspondexce.)-Madeline Pollerd was in the city today, and for about four hours was a guest of the Marlborough hotel under the name of "Miss Pollard." She was accompanied by a tall and angular young woman, who bore the title on the hotel register of Miss Jennie Burke. No place of residence was given. Neither did the singular couple have other baggage than two handpags which they carried. "Miss Pollard has the checks for the trunks," remarked Miss Burke, when she stepped up to the desk to

Miss Burke arrived alone, evidently wanting to spare her companion from the public gaze which she surmised would be lavishly bestowed if it was known who she was. The heroine of the Breckinridge-Pollard case arrived a few minutes later, and was seen only by the porter and the eleva-

The woman evidently thought they were safe from publicity, and had just finished luncheon when half a dozen reporters sent up their cards. The reporters were ushered up to suite No. 423 and met Miss Burke. The room was darkened. Miss Burke was dressed in black from head to foot and wore seedy looking black gloves, through the fingers of which could be seen her pink nails. She appeared to be nervous, but was sufficiently collected to ask the visitors to be seated. Her voice was low and musical as she asked:

What can I do for you, gentlemen?" A reporter responded: "We have called to see Miss Pollard." "Miss Pollard is quite fatigued with her journey," remarked Miss Burke, "She wants to sleep, and I am just going out to get her a sedative."

To the question as to the object of Miss Pollard's visit, Miss Burke replied that she was here on private business.

Some one suggested that she was making arrangements to go on the stage, but the idea was indignantly scouted by Miss Burke.

"Is it true," asked a reporter, "that Miss Pollard is about to enter the goal of her ambition and enter a literary career?" Miss Burke replied, after a half dozen queries, that Miss Pollard had written a book. When asked the name of the novel she declined to tell at first, on the ground that Miss Pollard might not like it. The latter had told Miss Burke to keep the matter a secret. She finally said that it was "A Marriage Above Zero."

When requested to ask Miss Pollard if she would not make a statement to the reporter. Miss Burke left the room a moment. The voices of the two women could be plainly heard in the next room. When Miss Burke returned she said Miss Pollard would see the reporters at 9 o'clock.

What occurred afterwards is told by the hotel officials. No sooner had the reporters left than Miss Burke sent down for a bill, which she paid, and left the hotel, walking with Miss Pollard toward Thirtythird street. Miss Burke told the bell boy she was going to the Vendome hotel, but

It is generally believed that Miss Pollard wrote "A Marriage Above Zero" with the object of sending it to Kentucky to be used as political ammunition against Colonel Breckinridge in the coming election contest.

Female Suffrage.

Those who came in contact with the delegates to the constitutional convention during the brief session in Albany last week received the impression that the cause of woman suffrage would be defeated. It will be considered first by a committee, and as Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, wife of the president of the convention, is one of the signers of the petition in favor of striking the word "male" out of the constitution, there is no doubt that President Choate will appoint a committee which will give the petition respectful and earnest consideration. Whether its report will be favorable or unfavorable to woman suffrage cannot now be said, but the subject, which Mr. Choate in his opening address described as one of great delicer, will undoubtedly be discussed at delicacy, will undoubtedly be discussed at length in the convention, in which the wo-men will have a number of able champions. Perhaps they will be able to convert a majority to their way of thinking, but at present the outlook is unfavorable to them. Among other forces that are working against them are these: The Germans, against them are these: The Germans, as a body, are, it is said, strongly opposed to woman suffrage, and they are an influential class in this state, as elsewhere in the country. Then many delegates fear that women, if given the ballot, would be too much influenced by their religious prejudices, and perhaps too much controlled by their sufficiency and would yote their spiritual advisers, and would vote in large masses only when their sectarian feelings were aroused. This is stoutly de-nied by the advocates of woman suffrage, but nevertheless it is one of the strongest influences now working against them in the convention. One of the ablest argu-ments ever made in favor of woman suf-frage was delivered by George William 1867. The women have done wisely in hav-ing this speech reproduced in pamphlet The War Against Racing.

Is horse racing doomed?

Devotees of the one-time sport of kings are afraid that it is. They fear that it will have to surrender to the law. The Ives amendment to the penal code, which clothed it with at least an aspect of legality, has been declared unconstitutional, and thus the only barrier which has stood between the race track and the enforcement of sections 351 and 352 of the penal code has been tions 351 and 352 of the penal code has been

If it were possible to conduct running races without a gambling annex, the de-cision of the general term of the court of common pleas would have little or no influerce upon the future of the sport, as there is no law in the code which prescribes con-tests between horses for stated prizes. But. gambling is the chief and almost sole aim of the game.

Mr. Bower's View of the Act. John M. Bowers, counsel for all of the jockey clubs, maintains that the decision does not affect the Ives law, so far as it relates to bookmaking. He says:

"The suit in the common pleas was to collect a debt or wager. The enforcement of bets or wagers by courts has been against the statute of this state for ages, and no one thought of conferring such power by the introduction and passage of the er by the introduction and passage of the Ives pool bill. It was, however, afterward claimed that the effect of the bill was not only to permit bookmaking at race tracks, but that it permitted the enforcement of wagers, and this was distinctly held by Judge Daniels in the case of Brennan vs. Brighton Beach Racing Association.

"It is idle to taik about the fact being unconstitutional, because the institution does not prevent bookmaking, and no one has ever made such a suggestion. If the legislature had the power to pass section 351 it had power to repeal or amend it. In addition to all this the court of appeals has

flatly decided the question in favor of the

The Racing Outlook Darkened. From the foregoing it will be seen that the outlook for racing is not bright, but whether or not the end of the sport which has held sway in New York for so many years is at hand remains to be seen. If it goes down under the decision of the court of common pleas, its downfall can be charged to Peter De Lacey, ex-poolroom king, and his lawyers, Howe & Hummel.

It is a strange fact that wherever racing has been destroyed by the courts or public.

has been destroyed by the courts or public opinion, racing men and gamblers have been primarily responsible for the destruction. This was true in Chicago and New Jersey and Washington.
Whether it is because the game is so profitable that they cannot agree like men in any other business, or whether it is for some other cause, quarreling and bickering seems to have always been the rule in racing circles, and as the public, which has to pay for it all, has never been disposed to stand it, the game has suffered. A Tremendons Blow to Breeding.

Te close the New York tracks would be a tremendous blow to the breeding interests of the whole country, which has grown to splendid proportions under the impetus; that racing has enjoyed during the past six or seven years.

Millions of dollars' worth of property. including farms and horses, would be ren-dered nearly valueless by the cessation of racing in New York, which is now, as it always has been, the main support of the game. The Chicago tracks are in danger and it looks as if this will be their last

Nashville, Tenn., May 15.—(Special.)—
There is a difference of opinion between

Collector ments before it is done with. Collector Bond is also custodian of the custom house and before the beginning of the present bank trials had orders from Secretary Carlisle not to allow any juries to sleep thereafter in the jury rooms—where the Porter jurors had slept. Judge Sage decided that it was for the interest of the court to have the jury sleep there as well as for the comfort of the jury, and ordered that they occupy the grand jury room and have their meals there.

Mr. Bond declined to allow this and Judge Sage insisted on the right of the federal court to use the rooms set apart for the court in his own way. He therefore order ed Mr. Bond to allow the use of the rooms as ordered or go to jall for contempt of court. Mr. Bond asked that he might have

CAROLINA'S REPUBLICANS.

The State Executive Committee Dis-Courses the Registration Laws.
Columbia, S. C., May 15.—(Special.)—
The republican state committee met here today, State Chairman E. A. Webster and fourteen members were present. The most important action of the meeting was the appointment of a committee consisting of Webster, national committeeman; Ellersy M. Brayton, E. H. Deas and E. J. Dickinson to adopt a plan to test in the courts the South Carolina registration and eight box election laws. They maintain that the registration law is unconstitutional because by its provisions persons who failed to register in 1892 are practically disfranchised, notwithstanding that the constitution declares that a man may not be deprived of this right except on conviction of felony or mental incapacity.

A special committee was appointed to decide as to the conflicting claims of In-cumbent G. W. Murray and Robert Smalls to the congressional nomination in the first district. National Chairman Carter and National Congressional Chair-man Babcock are to act with this committee and its adjudication is to be final.

A BILL HARD TO PASS

Jaffa Makes Two Unsuccessful Efforts to Change a Ten Dollar Note.

IT IS A VERY GOOD COUNTERFEIT The Bank Officials Pronounce It Bad Mon-

Satago Domis is a brown-skinned son of Italy and owns a fruit stand on Whitehall street at James's corner.

But from present prospects Satago will no longer "sella de banan" or maka de mon'" by disposing of his varied and attractive display of tropical produce.

A ten-dollar counterfeit bill is the cause of his trouble and future developments in his case may spread consternation in the colony of Atlanta Italians.

It was about 10 o'clock vesterday morning when Satago stepped into the office of Mr. Leonard James and saked his to compare the control of the control

Leonard James and asked him to change the ten-dollar bill which he held in his hand.
Mr. James had counted out the money and was in the act of giving it to the fruit dealer when by chance something in the dealer when by chance something in the appearance of the bill excited his suspicion and he refused to accept it.

Satago's next attempt was down on Decatur street, where he tried to work the bill off on one of his fellow countrymen, Jaffa by name. Here he purchased a pair of shoes and other things in the dry goods line. Jaffa too was wise. The dilapidated condition of the greenback made him also suspicious and before handing over the over to the Atlanta National bank, where he put the bill up for expert examination. The flaws in its make-up were detected and the stuff at once pronounced counter-

On his way back Jaffa got hold of a po liceman and informing him of the circum-stances insisted upon the arrest of Satago. The fruit vender was marched up immediately before Judge Nash Broyles for preliminary investigation.

Several witnesses were examined who testified that Satago was persistent in his efforts to get the greenback off on some one. Owing to the absence of other im portant witnesses the hearing was post-poned until this morning.

For some weeks past an unusual amount of counterfeit money has been afloat about Atlanta and the detectives have been endeavoring to locate the gang. All attempts, however, have resulted fruitlessly. The bill itself is an issue very dangerous and deceptive. A casual glance would detect nothing wrong with it, but closer in-spection shows the fiber of the paper some-what coarser than that usually used in Uncle Sam's notes, and the engraving is clumsily executed.

Satago claims that the greenback was of bananas at his stand. The case will be investigated this morning before Judge Broyles. ARTISTS' MODELS.

From The New York Sun. The hard times have brought one com-pensation to the figure painters at least, and that is an abundance of fine good models, and at reduced retes.

Ponce de Leon Avenue, Two Lots af Auction Thursday, May 17th, 4 P. M.

These lots are 105 feet west of Jackson street, and each fronts 50 feet on Ponce de Leon avenue, and each is accessible in the rear by an alley. The depth of one lot is 156½ feet, and of the other 203 feet. Both lots are elevated above the street about five feet, and they are nicely graded, with perfect shape. Water and kas mains and brick sewer and brick walks and/paving all down and paid for, so that the lots are now ready for homes to be erected on them. They are at the intersection of two electric lines giving quick schedules to and from business center, either via Ponce de Leon and Peachtree or by Jackson street and Edgewood avenue. Many beautiful homes surround these lots, and it is claimed by many that Ponce de Leon avenue rivals Peachtree in beauty already, while it is promised early improvements, which will make it even surpass Peachtree. The extension of the Jackson street line to Piedmont park is contemplated and the famous Ponce de Leon spring is quite near, so that famines here will be very convenient to both the park and the spring by car line or by a pleasant afternoon or evening walk. The terms of sale are one-half cash, the remainder April 1, 1897, with 8 per cent interest, pevable semiannually.

Plats will soon be ready, and you are invited to inspect these lots and prepare to secure one or both of these choice sites for permanent homes. The sale will be to the highest bidder fairly and without reserve.

Something to Think About.

Did you ever notice one fact-of everything that we individually know most about we want the best. The best location is none too good for the retailer who gets there. The best tea is none too good for the tea merchant's private use. The best se-curities are what the banker buys for himself. Butchers do not eat cheap meat. The stable man does not drive a poor horse, and builders do not build for themselves cheap houses. "Cheap" catches many men once, but it only catches fools the second time. Now in buying a watch, which is expected to run for a life-time and keep ac curate time, don't allow yourself to be de ceived by cheap machines. If you want a really good article, we keep them, and they are offered at the lowest prices consistent with good quality. J. P. Stevens & Bro, jewelers, 47 Whitehall street.

CROPS ON A BOOM.

A Favorable Week for Farm Work Throughout Georgia.

THE FERTILE FIELDS ARE BLOOMING

Drought and Revived the Cotton and the Corn-What Morrill Says.

The crop report of Forecast Officer Mor-rill for the past week is more hopeful in its tone than any issued recently. Rains have fallen in nearly every section of the state and everything has taken on new life. The report says:

"Most sections of the state have received rain during the past week in the form of ocal showers. No general rain has yet oc curred and the amount of rainfall has varied greatly in different districts. At Augusta and Savannah nearly three inches have fallen; at Thomasville, one and a quarter; at Macon, one and three-quarters at West Point and Atlanta, one-third inch at Rome, one and six-tenths. These showers have been of immense value to crops and particularly to grain. They have also afforded an opportunity for setting out sweet potato slips. The temperature has continued above normal, a fact that has been of great importance to corn, which is now in excellent condition wherever rain has fallen.

"Good growing weather has prevailed in the northwest section of the state and farmers are cheerful. One of the most encouraging reports received was from Dal-ton, stating that the stand of cotton and corn were perfect in that vicinity; that wheat was looking better, and, though oats will be a short crop and fruit scarce, the outlook on the whole is quite promising. The above is a fair sample of the many good reports received from all parts of the counties of northwest Georgia. Only in exceptional localities, where dry weather has continued, is crop growth backward. New potatoes and green peas are just beginning to be marketed.

"This has been a very favorable week for all crops and farm work in the northrer countles of the state. Beneficial rains have fallen over most of this section, while in a few unfavorable places the drought still continues. The weather has been warm, and farmers are well up with their work. The beneficial effects of the rain have been noticed on all crops, especially cats. Wheat and rye are looking well and oats. Wheat and rye are looking well and are nearly in full head. Some rust has been noticed in the wheat blades. Oats are heading low. Corn is reported as a spiendid stand and is being worked. Millet and potatoes are in fine shape since the rain and sweet potato slips are being set out. Garden truck of all kinds are a little late, but all in good condition. Cotten on gray land is a good stand, but that on the red soil hot so good, Late planted cotton is beginning to break through the soil, worms are not as plentiful as they were last week.

"After a period of drought the farmers of northeastern Georgia were last week favored by scattered snowers, which have improved the appearance of all crops. Cotton planting has been inished and the fleecy staple is above ground with good stands. In many localities it is being chopped out. During the week late corn has been planted, but early corn is up and stands are good. A few correspondents complain of the ravages of bud worms on corn.
